

City sales tax hike sought, but no utility or income tax

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Granite City Council members had good news and bad news for taxpayers Tuesday night.

The good news is that local municipal officials see many disadvantages to a city income tax and to city utility taxes. As a result, they are not likely to be adopted.

The other news is that the officials look with favor on an added sales tax as a step toward balancing the city budget. It would amount to one cent per dollar of sales.

A detailed report submitted by the City Council's Intergovernmental Committee reviewed "pros and cons" of a city income (earnings) tax, in which those working here and those living here would pay part of their earnings to the municipality.

Discussions with State Representative Sam Wolf and other legislative authorities showed a city income tax would require enabling laws unlikely to be approved soon by the General Assembly.

In contrast, there is a belief at Springfield that home-rule cities like Granite City have the power to enact a sales tax on top of the present sales tax (four cents on each dollar goes to the state, one cent to the city and a quarter-cent to the Madison County bus district).

Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman, committee chairman, said he and Aldermen Jake Varadani and Warren Decatur conferred with Rep. Wolf and concluded that a new one-cent sales tax should be studied by the city attorney and then be brought to the City Council for its consideration.

Mayor Paul Schuler said the legal study will be started.

A court challenge in the Peoria area to a city sales tax is to be decided this fall, Schuman related.

The committee chairman said Wolf acknowledged that municipal income taxes might be a long-term solution but are "remote" in terms of their prospect of receiving legislative approval in the immediate future.

Alderman Casmer Skushish said the state deducts six percent of each community's sales tax revenue to cover its collection, administration and distribution costs. Committee members believed that an added sales tax might not require much more administrative work than the existing tax.

Skushish estimated that the present city portion of the sales tax generates $1,600,000 here annually, with the state retaining more than $100,000 to meet its costs.

Schuman described the concept of a city earnings tax as involving "horrendous administrative and enforcement problems," while a sales tax is relatively simple to implement.

He added, "We were under the impression that we could not add to the sales tax without state approval, but state legislative authorities are under the impression that we have the power to do so, as a home-rule unit."

Alderman Decatur commented, "It is the consensus of state legislative officials and attorneys that a city like Granite City, with a big industrial base, should shy away from a utilities tax, even though it may be appropriate for smaller cities which do not have many industries."

Other aldermen agreed that a tax on individual and business utility bills could be counter-productive, in that it might discourage industries from locating or expanding in a particular municipality.

Madison to mark 90th year at Ethnic Days

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The 90th anniversary, 1891 to 1981, of the City of Madison will be celebrated this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

It will be the theme of the sixth annual Ethnic Days celebration and special 90th anniversary sales by Madison businesses.

The Ethnic Days will be held in the area of the Madison Memorial Center, Seventh and Lee streets, Madison, all three days, and the stores are holding their special sales on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Madison and Venice residents and former residents, in fact just about everyone, will find the Madison Public Library booth at the Ethnic Days interesting.

A historical display is being set up by the library staff, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Kern, chief librarian.

The Golden Jubilee, Friday, Oct. 3, 1941, edition of the Madison Republic, a former weekly newspaper, later purchased by the Granite City Press-Record, will be in the display.

The late Mrs. Irene Hill, was the editor and publisher of the Madison Republic and she was active in Madison civic affairs.

Mrs. Hill was also president of the Madison School Board.

After the sale of the Madison Republic, her son the late Dale Hill went to work for the Press-Record nights as a type setter and was elected probate clerk for Madison County.

7 new industrial bond projects

Hardly a City Council meeting goes by these days without new industrial revenue bonds being discussed and acted upon, and Tuesday night's session was no exception.

Seven new Granite City projects totaling $5,035,000 were endorsed, even though little information on them was available to aldermen.

More details are to be made known when additional steps are taken to implement the proposed city bond issues, which may be possible low interest costs and yet do not become an obligation of the municipality.

Receiving Initial City Council approval were:

- $2,500,000 for Coated Materials, Inc., to equip steel slitting and painting facilities.

- $1,450,000 for restaurant, liquor and food service facilities to be operated by Walter Phillips.
- $325,000 for a construction trades office, commercial and warehouse facility planned by Granite Investment Company.
- $300,000 for a Granite Investment Co. commercial and office structure.

- $180,000 for a Granite Investment Co. pharmacy.
- $150,000 for a commercial office to be established by Word Properties Investments.
- And $130,000 for Executive Business Counselors, Inc., laundromat and commercial facilities.

Treatment plant crew agrees to staffing, overtime cutback

The Granite City sewage treatment plant staff has agreed to one-person weekend and holiday manning, and has conceded that all overtime decisions will be made by the plant supervisors.

These cost reductions were approved Tuesday night by the City Council, which agreed to a 26-person staff (27, including Supt. Terry McMillan).

The changes in the city's agreement with the Operating Engineers union were approved on an 11-2 vote, with Aldermen Warren Decatur and Fred P. Schuman opposed, and Alderman Margaret Norn absent due to illness.

The reduction to 26 from 32 was accomplished by two layoffs and three reductions by attrition, including death and illness.

The treatment staff was praised and criticized.

Alderman Carl Kittel said he was pleased that the city was able to get good Granite City families and should not be ridiculed at City Council meetings.

Alderman Mac Warfield said an analysis of sick leave at the treatment plant shows numerous employee absences, with a heavy concentration on Mondays and Fridays.

The Operating Engineers were described as the only city union so far to propose comprehensive operating revisions as a way of helping the municipality balance its income and expenses.

Alderman Schuman reacted strongly to comments at the council meeting by the union's David Young, Schuman said, the city at no time acted "in bad faith" and simply did not know that adequate funds no longer would be available to meet contract provisions.

Young said substantial savings are likely to occur from the revisions now agreed upon.

He said McMillan can decide unilaterally whether an absent employee needs to be replaced through overtime assigned to another worker, or whether the remaining staff can keep up with the workload.

In the event of an emergency situation in which overtime must be

Madison opens mall bids

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The Madison City Council opened bids for the beginning of the retail mall and reviewed the proposed retail tax levy which has been reduced by $97,250 at a meeting Tuesday night.

The tax levy and the contract for the construction of the 12,000 square foot building for the new shopping area are scheduled to be acted on at the next council meeting Tuesday, Sept. 1.

If there is no change by other taxing bodies, such as the school district, and the assessed valuation remains the same, the new tax levy will mean about a 12 percent reduction on next year's combined tax bill.

The actual assessed valuation of the city is now $12,031,728; actual tax rate now is $2.046 on $100 assessed valuation.

Based on a 1981 assessed valuation of $12 million the 1981 tax rate is estimated by City Comptroller Al Hudzik, to be $1.24 per $100.

Each increase in assessed valuation of $100,000, will decrease the tax rate by .01 cent, and each decrease in the assessed valuation of $100,000 will increase the tax rate by .01 cent.

Seven construction firms submitted bids for the construction by the corner of Third Street and Madison Avenue. Companies and their bids, in order

GC man united with daughter after 27 years

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

"I could only see half of his face when I got off the plane in St. Louis, but I ran to him and hugged him and cried 'Daddy.'"

"It must have been instinct. I knew he was my father even though I'd never seen him before and had only a small picture taken a long time ago."

Dolly Joann Mosier of San Bernardino, Calif., animatedly described her reactions last week when she saw her father, William Lewis Mosier of Granite City, for the first time in 27 years.

"I'd wanted so long to see my father. Then, all I could think was—I don't believe this is really happening."

"Did I cry?" she asked her father. "Yes, you cried a little," Mosier replied.

"I've found three brothers and 40 first cousins and aunts and uncles that I didn't know existed before coming here," the young woman said.

When Dolly Mosier was six months old, her parents separated while living in Tennessee and her mother, then a girl of 17, brought the baby back to Illinois to live with her parents.

Later, there was a divorce and when Dolly was 5 years old, she and her mother moved to California.

Other members of the maternal side of Dolly's family also migrated from Illinois to California in the intervening years and she had no lack of grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins while growing up.

No contact was maintained, however, between the divorced couple and soon Mosier left the Dover, Tenn., area and got a job at the McDonnell-Douglas plant in St. Louis.

He moved to Granite City and remarried.

Mosier stayed with the aviation firm for 12 years, but some years ago left this community when his

CETA still open for business

Only 15 percent of Illinois business employers know that the Comprehensive Training and Employment Act (CETA) is still "Open For Business," according to results of a survey announced today by Dr. Reginald V. Brown, director of the Chicago mayor's Office of Employment and Training.

Although the private industry portion of CETA has survived federal budget cuts, the survey reveals that most business people believe that CETA has been completely eliminated, Brown says. The survey was conducted among 200 Illinois business employers statewide.

CETA's goal is to train and place the unemployed and underemployed in jobs. Under CETA's new structure, the placement emphasis has shifted from public service employment to private industry—where 80 percent of the nation's jobs are. The Reagan cuts eliminated CETA's public service component.

"Survey results show that CETA has an opportunity to inform employers about the benefits of CETA and how it works," Dr. Brown notes. "The long term success of CETA depends on the private sector's willingness to participate and make CETA work for Illinois."

Uncertainty and lack of awareness characterized many "respondents" questions, when asked about CETA in the survey. Few employers were able to answer survey questions correctly, and one in three was "not sure" about statements made about CETA.

Less than half of the business employers surveyed are aware of the benefits they can receive by hiring CETA workers and only 33 percent have direct experience with CETA. For example, only 44 percent know that CETA pays employers to train CETA workers. In CETA's on-the-job training program, CETA contributes funds to set up training programs at the employer's plant or office, and pays up to half of the CETA worker's wages during the training period.

In CETA's classroom training program, the worker learns a specialized skill and is placed in a private industry job. Only 41 percent of Illinois employers realize CETA will train workers before helping them to find jobs.

All CETA programs are funded through the Federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, but are administered locally. A unit of local government serves as the prime sponsor or administrator of local CETA activities.

The private sector initiative program of CETA provides money for training programs to meet the particular needs of local businesses. It also mandates the creation of Private Industry Councils (PICs), panels of local business and industry leaders, in each of Illinois' 20 prime sponsor areas.

Only one in ten business employers surveyed had heard of the PIC. PICs advise the prime sponsor, on

Amends rules to compute taxes

The Department of Revenue has filed an emergency amendment to its Illinois Income Tax Regulation Section 702-2 with the Secretary of State. The amendment (1) outlines how employers should compute the amount of Illinois income tax to withhold from employees whose federal withholding exemption certificates (Form W-4) have been declared ineffective by the Internal Revenue Service, (2) establishes when employers should refer Illinois withholding exemption certificates to the department for investigation, and (3) clarifies how employees may calculate and claim the maximum exemption from Illinois withholding to which they are entitled under the law.

Under the terms of the Administrative Procedures Act, the amendment became effective immediately on filing. The department also simultaneously filed notice of its intention to adopt the regulations on a permanent basis.

It is expected that the new regulations will be published in the Illinois Register on or about August 31, 1981. Copies of the Illinois Register may be obtained from the Secretary of State's office, Rules Division, 400 Centennial Building, Springfield, IL 62756. A check for $5 payable to the Secretary of State should be enclosed.

State farmers to meet at Effingham

The annual convention of the Illinois National Farmers Organization will be held Saturday, Aug. 29, at the Best Western Motel, Effingham.

Convention activities will begin with committee meetings the previous afternoon. Delegate registration will begin at 8 a.m. Aug. 29 and Kenneth Stremlau, Mendota, state president, will call the first session to order at 10 a.m. Delegates will be seated on the national board of the national convention in Indianapolis in December. Resolutions will also be approved. Commodity directors will give progress reports and time has been scheduled for delegate questions.

State Nass, Plymouth, legislative director, will report on the farmland assessment bill just signed into law by Gov. James Thompson. Also speaking will be Allen Libbra, chairman of the Illinois Public Action Committee. The evening program will consist of a buffet banquet and a talk by National President DeVon Woodland, Blackfoot, Idaho.

GC twirler takes 2 national titles

Rhonda Mikulas, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mikulas Jr. of Sunny Dell Acres, Granite City, successfully defended her first place national championship in drum majorette competition at the "American Youth on Parade," a NBTAA sponsored meet held last week at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind.

The local girl has retained the championship trophy for the past eight years, based on her performance in whistle and oral commands, beat time presentations and appearance.

She also won the national first place trophy in the rifle solo division, which consisted of slap precision, general effect and showmanship and military bearing.

Rhonda won medals also for such contest events as field general and advance flag, two baton and fancy flag.

More than 2,000 competed in the meet, ranging in age from 3 to 20 years.

Prior to the national contest, Rhonda competed in the preliminary state championship meet at Arlington Heights, Ill., taking first place plaques in advance two baton, flag, advance hoop and advance military march.

The twirler took part in Aug. 9 competition at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield, finishing second in advance solo.

The Granite City High School North freshman has accumulated 695 trophies and 95 medals since she began her career as a baton twirler 10 years ago and has attended national meets since the age of 6.

She uses her skills to entertain at half-time during 7th and 8th grade basketball games at Sacred Heart and St. Joseph parochial schools.

Rhonda is a student of Cheryl Palmer of Balwin, Mo., and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mikulas, all of Granite City.

Michael Dickson dies in Arkansas

Word has been received here of the death of Michael Wayne Dickson, 31, of Route 4, Paragould, Ark., on Aug. 6, 1981, at the Arkansas Methodist Hospital in Paragould.

Mr. Dickson, a former Granite City resident, had been ill with cancer for the past eight months.

He was born in Paragould and had returned there from Granite City about four years ago. Previously, he had resided in St. Louis.

While here, Mr. Dickson was employed as a body man at Dempsey-Adams Auto Body shop.

Among the survivors are his wife, Mrs. Janet (Harty) Dickson, a native of Granite City; two children, Clinton, 5, and Brandi, 2, both at home; his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Linderman of Paragould; one brother, Darrell Dickson of Jonesboro, Ark.; and his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Levi (Nancy) Harty of Granite City.

Services were held Sunday, Aug. 9, at Keith Funeral Home in Paragould. Burial was in a cemetery in that community.

Memorial plane to be lifted Saturday

The elevation of the Ford jet fighter's memorial in Wilson Park to a more lofty and less accessible position is scheduled between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. Saturday.

The lifting of the aircraft onto its new pedestal bases on the site of the crash, which occurred two weeks ago, was postponed due to the Operating Engineers strike.

Steve Konkovich of Granite City, who was responsible for getting the aircraft donated by the U.S. Air Force, is an unusual and eye-catching memorial to area living and deceased veterans, said hoisting the plane to a jets reachable height is essential to keeping it intact.

The six-ton aircraft has been repeatedly vandalized since it arrived in Wilson Park on Oct. 18, 1971.

The plane is being elevated to prevent further destruction, Konkovich said.

In past years, vandals have punched holes in the fuselage and removed an assortment of hardware. Parts for the jet, used in the Korean War on bombing and strafing missions, no longer are available.

"The Air Force demands that the plane be kept in an eye-catching position," Konkovich said. "The plane is in a presentable condition to properly reflect the service."

Flowers & Gifts

Crocuses are part of a large group of bulbous plants of the iris family which includes the saffron of Egypt and the Mediterranean. The ancients used this flower to adorn their marriage beds. According to the Greek poet Homer, the crocus was one of the components of Zeus' couch. In Nero's Rome, the crocus was considered a great cordial, a tonic for the heart and a love potion. The luxurious Romans would strew crocus blossoms in gardens, banquet halls and fountains filling the air with its beautiful fragrance.

King Henry I of England forbade the use of his favorite spice when the court ladies used vast amounts of hair dye.

Time running out for use of GI Bill for education

Time is running out for approximately 900,000 veterans to use educational benefits of the GI Bill, now in its 37th year.

About one-fifth of the 4.3 million eligible veterans will lose their eligibility for benefits this year, according to the Veterans Administration. The law permits a veteran to use the education benefits within 10 years following discharge from service, or by Dec. 31, 1989, whichever is earlier.

From June 22, 1944, when the first measure was signed by President Roosevelt, through June 30, 1961, 18 million veterans have received assistance under the GI Bill, at a cost of $51 billion.

About 35 percent of all trainees have been Vietnam Era veterans. This year the GI Bill will assist the education of more than 800,000 Vietnam Era veterans.

More than 7.8 million World War II veterans were trained under the original measure, about one-half of all those eligible. Another 2.4 million, or 43.4 percent of those eligible, studied under the Korean plan, and nearly 7.8 million Vietnam Era and Post-Korean veterans and service personnel have thus far participated in the current program. Some 65 percent of the Vietnam Era veterans eligible have received training. A new program, which requires financial participation by service personnel, is available for those who entered the military after Dec. 31, 1976. Veterans who want more information on GI Bill eligibility should contact the nearest VA regional office.

Two students participate in program for gifted

Two students from Granite City took part in MacMurray College's Summer Enrichment Program for Gifted and Talented Young People. Students who attended the program were Maria Renee Schrader and Annella Lynn Betts of the Prather Junior High School.

A total of nearly 300 boys and girls in grades five through nine participated in the program which featured four two-week sessions during the months of June, July and August. The program, which attracted students from across the state, was the first of its kind ever offered in Illinois.

In order to participate, youngsters had to first be nominated through their local school system. Also, each had to meet at least two of the following requirements: achievement test scores at least 2.0 grade levels higher than the present grade level; an IQ of 120 or above; demonstration of a special talent and high level of creativity in at least one area; and special recommendation through a local school official.

Watch out for school pupils, drivers urged

Motorists should give special attention to safe driving procedures as children return to school at summer's end, cautions the AAA Auto Club of Missouri. Classes are to start here Tuesday, Aug. 25.

In its annual "School's Open" program, designed to make drivers especially aware of children going to and from school, the AAA is urging motorists to give a second thought to and a second look at the hundreds of school children they soon will encounter.

The club says children are active, inquisitive and impetuous, and never miss an opportunity to explore something that interests them—even if it means venturing into the street.

The "dart out," or sudden appearance of a child in the path of a moving vehicle, is listed as one of the most common causes of motor accidents involving children. "To reduce a child pedestrian accident potential, drivers should pay closer attention to parked cars, shrubbery, or similar vision obstructions," a spokesman said.

"Many children know little of pedestrian safety rules, and even those that do are likely to forget them in pursuit of a rolling ball or a wind-tossed school paper."

"School children generally depend on motorists to exercise safe driving practices. Area motorists should be especially alert for children traveling on foot, on bicycles, and boarding or alighting from school buses."

The AAA offers these safety reminders for motorists:

1. When in school zones, watch for reduced speed limit signs that become effective when classes are in session.

2. Remember the law about stopping before passing or overtaking a school bus stopped to pick up or discharge children.

3. Watch for youngsters riding bicycles. They may appear suddenly from a blind spot near your car.

4. If you are a parent, help your child map out his or her safest way to school. And remember that traffic hazards near schools multiply when children are dropped off and picked up in family cars.

5. Remember that school traffic controls such as stop signs, traffic signals, and adult crossing guards will be operating. Summer driving habits must change to look for and obey these special controls.

Governor seeks aid for farmers

Governor James R. Thompson requested Friday that the Farmers Home Administration make emergency loan assistance available to farmers in 12 Illinois counties where crops and farm land were damaged by excessive rainfall during the period of April 1, 1981, through July 31, 1981.

The counties are Brown, Greene, Hardin, Johnson, Kankakee, Logan, Massac, Pike, Pope, Pulaski, Saline and Scott.

"Many farmers lost their entire crops and many others suffered yield reductions while others were unable to plant because of the extreme amounts of precipitation," Thompson said in a letter to U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block.

The Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service estimated damage exceeded $55.8 million.

If the governor's request is approved, immediate emergency loan assistance will be made available to farmers who lost their crops and had damage to farm land. Farmers suffering projected yield reductions would be eligible for assistance after the fall harvest.

Governor Thompson made a similar request for 18 counties on June 30. Those counties are Carroll, Clark, Coles, Cook, Cumberland, DeKalb, Fulton, Gallatin, Grundy, Hancock, Johnson, Lee, Livingston, Logan, Massac, Schuyler, Stephenson and Will.

Of those 18 counties, Carroll, Fulton, Hancock and Schuyler were approved in July. Approval for the remaining 14 counties is pending.

The counties of Johnson, Logan and Massac were included in both requests due to additional damages received after the June 30 request.

CASH IS TAKEN
Officials of Pointers' Pizza in Granite City, told authorities that approximately $130 cash and some cash receipts had been stolen from a drawer in the pizza parlor's office between 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. Monday. The office had not been locked, it was indicated.

James 5:17... "Eliah was a man subject to like passions as we are, and he prayed earnestly."

It is almost unbelievable how God's outstanding men in the Bible were only men. They were tempted as you and I are tempted. They had trials and tribulations just as we do. Still they accomplished great things for their Lord.

Of Eliah it is written that he prayed earnestly, no foolishness. There should always be a business attitude about our prayer life. Whether we have a need or whether we just want to worship God in prayer, we should be very serious as we approach Him.

The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. We may be surprised at how much we can accomplish for God by praying earnestly.

Pray Today.

second marriage ended and returned here only in 1976.

Dolly's quest into the family background began about a year ago, with the encouragement of her church.

She belongs to the Church of the Latter Day Saints at Rialto, Calif., and the Mormon church requires its members to trace their family history back four generations, she explained.

"Late last summer, she found records indicating her paternal great-grandfather had lived near Model, Tenn."

She did not pursue the matter further at that time upon discovering that Model no longer existed.

"Where the town used to be is now a National Wildlife Game Refuge," she explained.

On June 15 of this year, she began her search in earnest and went to the federal archives in Laguna-Niguel.

Within two hours, Dolly said, she traced her maternal grandmother's family tree back to 1796 and her maternal grandfather's family to 1897.

Meanwhile, she had written a letter to the Petty Cemetery in Stewart County, Tenn., where she had learned her paternal great-grandfather was buried.

By coincidence, the caretaker knew a sister of Mosier's, Mrs. Dorothy Perigo, of Clarksville, Tenn., and passed along the letter.

Again by accident, Dorothy's daughter, Connie Petrovic of Huntington Beach, Calif., was visiting her mother in Tennessee at the time and answered the letter, providing Dolly with the address of another of her aunts, Louise Jones in Granite City.

Dolly wrote to Mrs. Jones on July 9 and on July 7 she received a telephone call from Granite City and spoke with her father for the first time.

"One lady had a funny conversation," she said.

Before coming here last Tuesday, Dolly visited with her cousin, Mrs. Petrovic, in Huntington Beach and saw a photograph of her father for the first time.

She also learned she has three brothers, a grandfather, many new aunts and uncles and 40 first cousins.

Although she grew up among her mother's family in California with "good loving relationships," Dolly admits she frequently thought about her Dad over the years.

"Many times, I'd watch a TV commercial with children around their father and I'd wonder what my own Dad looked like," she said Monday.

"My Mom gave me a positive attitude about Dad, told me only the good things."

"Until I saw my father at the airport, I always thought I looked like my Mom, but now I can see I really look more like him and his sister."

Both Mousier and his daughter have the same laugh, the same eyes and other mutual characteristics.

Dolly's mother has never remarried.

"To be honest I am a Momma's girl and I've never been this far away from her before," she commented.

"I'd also never been on a plane before coming here," she added.

Dolly, a certified nurse aide, has been unable to work since she became disabled from an auto accident seven years ago.

So members of Dolly's church joined together to help her make the trip here.

"One lady had a funny conversation and I received checks from other church members," she said.

"I find it very easy to talk to my new brothers, cousins and aunts and uncles. I felt that I really belonged here from the moment I arrived...as if I've lived here and known them all my life."

"Before coming, I worried about how I'd react and what I could do or say. I didn't expect things to be this good."

Dolly's brothers are William Terry Mosier, 18, Claude Wade Mosier, 22, and Larry Miller, 26, all of Granite City.

She also has a paternal grandfather, Elvis C. Mosier, 86, who is in a nursing home in Clarksville, Tenn., and whom she plans to visit before returning to California on Sept. 1.

A family reunion during the weekend also drew many relatives to meet Dolly, including George and Ruby Mosier from Peoria.

Dolly's interest in genealogy, which led her to finding her father again, has caught the imagination of family members here, who want her to compile a booklet about their ancestors.

"I have about five people booked into genealogy right now, and who knows where it will lead," she said Tuesday.

With her determination, it's hard to say.

But the happiness surrounding her reunion with her father is obvious and they will never lose contact again, she vows.

When aldermen questioned whether a restaurant could be defined as industrial, Assistant City Attorney Irvin Slate Jr. said, "That is not our problem, but that of the developer in persuading bond buyers."

Alderman Paul Bowler said tangible developments that are expected to improve the economy of the local community can be considered industrial revenue projects. "Almost

Schnucks buys Sealtest

Donald O. Schnuck, president of Schnuck Markets Inc., announced today the purchase of the Sealtest Dairy facility and the completion of a three year $15 million distribution and warehousing expansion.

In making the announcement, Schnuck said, "We are pleased to be completing this three-year expansion plan. The purchase of the Sealtest Dairy facility gives us the ability to process our own fluid milk products. Our distribution and warehousing expansion, which was completed this week, gives us the most modern and efficient warehouse facilities in this area. This included a major addition to our Bridgeton Grocery Distribution Center, the purchase of our Manchester distribution facility and the installation of new selecting and loading systems in our dry grocery, frozen food and perishable warehouses.

"With the completion of this major expansion, we will be able to provide the freshest milk possible to our consumers, and we will now have the most modern equipment and facilities, possible to supply products to our supermarkets for the consumer."

Truck debris to be curbed

Police agreed at Tuesday night's City Council meeting to monitor trucks said to be hauling slag from American Steel Foundries. Weights are to be checked, and trailer covers are to be required.

Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadani said much slag has fallen onto West 20th Street, causing dust and also mud when it rains.

Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portell estimated that a city sweeper and truck were assigned to West 20th for two and a half days due to the slag.

Alderman Sam Whitmer said it is a police matter that could have been handled by alerting the department, rather than presenting it at a council meeting. Acting Chief George Teller said the police department was unaware of the problem.

FORMER GOV. DAN WALKER

Ex-Governor Dan Walker studies his chances for another try

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record
Former Illinois Governor Dan Walker came to Granite City Wednesday afternoon, admittedly to sound out the public and politicians as to whether he should run again for governor.

From all appearances, Walker already is a candidate seeking the backing and eventual endorsement of party leaders.

Officially, he has made no announcement of his candidacy, but he admitted freely that he feels he has a good chance for selection by the party as the Democratic candidate to oppose Governor James Thompson in the 1982 election.

"I am meeting throughout the state with party leaders and questioning my friends, acquaintances and the public as to what my chances would be," Walker said.

"I feel at this time they are excellent. It is surprising to learn how many people remember me and urge me to make the race."

In fact, the former governor said, the "urging" by friends to oppose Governor Thompson is what got me interested in considering another try for the governorship.

"I've been hearing 'Go at him, Dan,' and 'Get in the race' and things like that from people I know for a long time."

The former governor said he met Wednesday with Madison County Democratic leaders and earlier had met with leaders and officials in St. Clair County.

"I am encouraged by what I learned and I am convinced now that I have an edge to receive the endorsement by party leaders for the endorsement, and that is the only way I'll run—unless there happens to be an open primary. Then I imagine there may be six or seven candidates in the running."

He said he expects the State Central Committee to make an endorsement of a candidate to run against Thompson and believe the choice will lie between himself and Senator Adlai Stevenson.

"If the central committee should choose Stevenson and the party is unified in the selection, I probably would not run," he said.

If there is no endorsement, "Then that will be a different story," he added.

The former governor said he is "just starting in this thing, and there's a lot of things I have to learn because it's been five years since I was governor and everything is different now. It's a whole different ball game."

Walker said he expects to tour many different parts of downstate during the next two weeks.

An announcement as to whether he will get in the race should come in about two or three weeks, he said, after he summarizes the present political situation and determines what his chances are.

While he was governor from 1972 to 1976, "I worked hard at the job," he said. "I was willing to take the responsibility for what state departments did and I took the bad marks along with the good ones."

After leaving Granite City, Walker will head upstate where he will tour Chicago where he considers himself the weakest. He admits that his defeat to Michael Howlett in the 1976 primary was due entirely to the Cook County vote.

Walker, now 59, lives in Oak Brook, Ill., where he maintains law offices as well as conducting an office in Fairview Heights.

Right now, he said, he is in the midst of organizing an auto service business which expects to have about ten outlets in the state.

He said he was present at the mob violence by about 1,000 miners at Galatia, Ill., Tuesday.

"I was in Harrisburg and we decided to go to Galatia as we left for our next tour stop."

He blamed the problems there on Governor Thompson and said he believed the whole thing could have been avoided.

Walker believes his chances are good.

"One thing I have is the recognition factor. Its surprising how many people remember me from my past term. Many people come to me and tell me they want me to run."

"It would be a tough campaign. Lets not fool ourselves," Governor Thompson would be a hard man to beat."

City Temple Rangers win Olympics

City Temple of Granite City took first place in the Royal Rangers Olympics held at Wilson Park for three churches of the Metro South section of the Assembly of God Church. The City Temple Rangers took the final event of the contest known as "New Games" and scored a standing that gave them the top rating of 5 points.

Second place went to Maryville with 41 points, and third went to Fairview Heights with 39 points.

Previous events were basketball, winter pentathlon, orienteering and track and field. Other churches in the olympics were O'Fallon and Washington Park.

The "New Games" consisted of five new and in which the participants competed in three of the five of their choice. The first new game, "Bunker Hoyer," is a game in which two opponents stand on stumps facing each other, holding on to each end of a rope coiled up between them. On the command to start, they both start taking up the slack and try to cause their opponent to get off balance and fall from his stump.

This game was won by Commander Les Wiles of City Temple. Second was Commander Dan Holmes of City Temple. Third was Matt McPherson of Fairview Heights. Fourth and fifth were Bob Wood and Brian Eggenmeyer, both of Maryville.

Next was "Fra Ha". A game similar to badminton, but with no net. The players use paddles and hit tennis balls back and forth. First place was taken by Les Wiles. Second and third were Chuck Mason and Brian Eggenmeyer, both of Maryville. Fourth and fifth were Matt McPherson and Billy Turner, both of Fairview Heights.

The third new game was "Schmerry." This consisted of two players facing each other and throwing a sock with a tennis ball in the toe back to each other and catching it by the tail. In first place was Ron Royer of Fairview Heights. Second was Bob Wood of Maryville. Third was Les Wiles of City Temple. Fourth and fifth were Jim Meadows and Chuck Mason both of Maryville.

The fourth new game was "Frisbee Golf." There was a five hole course on which players threw a frisbee and had to strike an object at the end of each hole with the frisbee. The lowest number of strokes wins. Dan Holmes of City Temple took first. Second was Jim Meadows of Maryville. Third was Bob Wood of Maryville. Fourth and fifth were Matt McPherson and Billy Turner of Fairview Heights.

The last game was "Rattles," as in rattlesnake. Two players are blindfolded and put inside a circle of the remaining players. They are both given a "rattle," a can with rocks in it. The object is to reach out and strike the opponent by locating him from the sound of his rattle.

Each time one of them rattles, his opponent must answer with his rattle. The game was won by Bob Warfield of Fairview Heights. Second was Dan Holmes of City Temple. Third was Roy Royer of Fairview Heights. Fourth was Buckaroo Danny Holmes of City Temple. Fifth was Pete Fleming of Fairview Heights.

The Royal Ranger Olympics took place over the last two years at five different times and locations in the Metro South Section of Illinois. The Olympic staff will be evaluating the participation and enthusiasm of the events to determine if it will be feasible to hold the events again on a regular basis.

Property redemption legislation signed

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation that provides for a six-month redemption period for certain vacant property sold for non-payment of taxes.

Senate Bill 228 implements a constitutional amendment approved in November 1980 by Illinois voters.

"This legislation will encourage buyers of property sold for delinquent taxes to develop these properties as soon as possible," Thompson said.

"The current law leaves no incentive for these buyers to make even routine repairs since they could lose title in a two-year span. By cutting that time period to six months, the buyers will more quickly begin to repair the neglected property."

Thompson emphasized that the property involved is vacant non-farm real estate, real estate containing an improvement consisting of one or more structures of seven or more residential units, or commercial or industrial property.

The legislation was sponsored by Senator Edward Nedza and Representative Thaddeus Lechowicz, both of Chicago.

Treatment plant

authorized, the superintendent will have the option of granting compensatory time off on a later occasion, Young told the council.

The union official added that rejection of the newly-agreed plan would be "bad faith," and the council approved it by the 11-2 margin.

Young assured aldermen that if the city's financial outlook deteriorates further, the Operating Engineers will be willing to sit down again and review all procedures.

He added that sick leave provisions could be made one of the topics of future bargaining.

An effort by Alderman Jake Varadrian to allow a treatment plant worker five minutes to speak was disallowed because the council was approaching its scheduled 11 p.m. adjournment. The worker is one of those named in a statistical report as having had frequent absences.

A summary of wastewater plant employee absenteeism showed 251 sick leave days and 80 other lost-time days in 1979, with 373 and 74 in 1980, and 271 and 114 so far in 1981 (through Aug. 12).

Of the 271 sick leave days this year, 97 involved hospital and convalescence time, 73 were "other documented days" and 101 were undocumented.

Of the 114 other lost-time days in 1981, a total of 14 related to family deaths, and 11 to jury duty.

Alderman Decatur stressed that aldermen had voted repeatedly to reduce the treatment plant staff to 24 persons rather than 26, and questioned whether the council negotiating committee had been bypassed.

Mayor Paul Schuler praised the compromise reached with the Operating Engineers on modifying their agreement, calling it a "good proposal."

He quoted the council's previous layoff action as calling for a 24-man crew unless such savings could be achieved in some other way.

Decatur said savings from the staffing and overtime policy changes are likely to fall far short of those needed to adequately restrain treatment plant costs.

In response to questions by Alderman Jake Varadrian, McMillan said the staff size that has been agreed upon is approximately the minimum with which the plant could be safely and properly operated.

Alderman Warfield asked that plant workers be encouraged to reduce their absences from work.

Alderman Casmer Skubish agreed and said all city employees should have a spirit of compromise and cooperation in reducing costs to conform with available revenue.

Supt. McMillan said the key considerations on the treatment plant need to be (1) providing a sufficient staff to operate the plant to serve the needs of the community, and (2) to protect taxpayers' major investment in treatment buildings and equipment.

Asked by Varadrian whether the plant could operate with 24 workers, McMillan said that would require eliminating illness and vacations. He estimated that the new approach will end 80 percent to 90 percent of overtime costs.

Alderman Paul Fisk praised "the rank and file" for agreeing to conditions that will be costly to the individual workers but that will "save the jobs and earnings of two Granite City families."

Decatur said the reduced weekend and holiday staff may save $33,000 a year and overtime costs could total $15,000, but that this $48,000 figure is $120,000 less than the $168,000 saving that had been hoped for. He stressed that broader cuts had been ordered in two 134 council votes.

Decatur said there is nothing in ordinances specifying a 31-member staff, and Young replied that provisions of the ordinance outlining manning that, when added together, totals 31.

Decatur stressed that the latest auditor cash flow report shows that the treatment plant owes the general fund $155,500 and another account $30,800.

Later Tuesday night, the council voted to transfer an additional $186,765 from the general fund to the treatment plant fund, and $20,000 from the general fund to the workmen's compensation fund.

Alderman Schuman commented regarding the transfer to the treatment fund that it is enough to "make you nauseous."

Young recalled negotiations at various times with committees headed by Decatur and Schuman and said that the procedures followed until now have had full approval by the city. "If you do not want us to take vacations or sick leave, you should not agree to them," he remarked.

He described new adjustments as providing at least a 15 percent cost cutback and urged that the council not set up a "head-butting" confrontation.

Young said that utilization of sick leave and any instances of "absence without leave" could appropriately be discussed in the next round of negotiations, and Mayor Schuler said, "I agree."

Kittel described the treatment staff members as "honest, hard-working people" and urged that aldermen not make references to them "as if they were monkeys to be made fun of." The mayor agreed with that assertion, also.

Alderman Schuman said, "There are a lot of good people and good workers" at the treatment plant.

"You know who you are. There are also some bad people there, and they know who they are," Schuman asserted.

Alderman Sharon Perjak obtained clarifications of some payroll notations relating to treatment plant workers, and City Clerk Robert Stevens urged her to check with his office on a regular basis for payroll interpretations and explanations.

Alderman Paul Bowler asked about the rates for treatment charges, and McMillan acknowledged problems in meeting depreciation funds and bond accounts of the treatment plant.

Alderman Everett Morien attributed such problems to the council's unwillingness to set treatment fees at the level desired by bond holders.

Drive, Madison was the only bidder on lots 13 and 14 in the Maers Industrial Park.

The council approved the sale of both lots to the firm.

Lot 13 is currently where the Waggoner building is located and was sold to Waggoner for $150,000.

Lot 14, which is located next to the Waggoner building, was also sold to the company for $24,900.

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk said the revenue from the sale of the two lots would be used for the city cable television system and emergency system currently under construction.

The council also approved the sale of $300,000 in industrial revenue bonds to allow Waggoner to expand his company.

Plans call for the renting of heavy equipment by Waggoner.

The expansion will mean additional employment and increased tax revenue for the city.

Madison police make three major arrests

The Madison police made three major arrests early this week.

Calvin "Cookie" Branch, 24, of 34 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, is being held at the Madison county jail pending the posting of $100,000 bond on a charge of armed robbery.

Branch allegedly was armed with a shotgun and took over $600 from the Kern McGee service station, Fifth Street and McCambridge Avenue, Madison, on Friday, Aug. 14.

Branch was identified from over $200 photos of a known to authorities.

He was taken into custody at 6:40 p.m. Tuesday at his home.

Caterus Brent, 25, of 81 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was taken into custody at Market and State streets, Madison, on a warrant charging theft over $150.

Brent is being held on $25,000 cash bond.

Madison police and a Chicago-Northwestern security agent made the arrest.

Brent allegedly broke into a railroad car.

A telephone call was made to the Madison police at 1:18 p.m. that a man had been seen burglarizing an auto in the 400 block of Madison Ave.

Madison Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick, in his unmarked police car, was in the vicinity and took a Venice resident into custody at 500 State St., Madison, assisted by Lt. William Papa, less than 10 minutes after the call went out on the police radio.

Alfred Jackson, 41, of 327 Weaver St., Venice, 18 charged with burglarizing an auto and is being held on $25,000 bond.

GC zoning question—how much commercialization?

A new Granite City zoning ordinance and map are nearing completion, but the contents remain controversial.

The chief difference centers on how much of the city should be designated for commercial development and how much should be retained for residential use.

A special meeting is planned in late August by the City Plan Commission to put the proposed documents into final form.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the City Council on Tuesday night that time is running out for action on zoning revisions. He urged that the aldermen, once the new ordinance is ready, meet as a "committee of the whole" to provide their views on its wording.

Alderman Paul Fisk said he is concerned that some interests in Granite City may seek through zoning to make a building commissioner's or inspector's position into that of a "czar."

Fisk said he believes there will be an attempted land grab, potentially harming Third Ward property owners' rights. He added that he will fight vigorously on their behalf.

Mayor Schuler cautioned against excessive concern over some of the opinions expressed in public hearings on the new zoning document.

"The hearings were held to obtain everyone's viewpoints, but the final vote will be by this City Council. It will be your decision, and it will have to be made soon. This has been in process for the past year and a half," the mayor said.

What worries some of the aldermen, as well as some of the plan commissioners, is that currently mixed residential-commercial neighborhoods may edge toward complete commercialization.

At the Aug. 13 Plan Commission meeting, Chairman David Morgan discussed the new zoning map and said a few changes have been made.

Some citizens were described as wanting Madison Avenue, Johnson Road and Ponton Road to be commercial.

Members of the Granite City Board of Realtors advised the commission that the board favors commercial zoning for the north side of Johnson Road. Commissioners opposed such zoning, saying Johnson does not have the capacity to handle the traffic it might be generated.

Another board position questioned widespread commercial zoning in an area south of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Commissioners agreed that the area marked for commercial should be limited to property immediately adjacent to SEMC, with the remainder left residential.

A discussion brought out that for C-1 zoning, commercial offices, there must be 10,000 square feet, requiring the combining of three or four lots.

Attorney LeRoy Kenyon proposed that the commission recognize commercial zones on Madison Avenue north of 24th Street, in accord with present commercial patterns on that avenue.

During an Aug. 12 board of Appeals meeting, approval was given for William Ellington, 3135 Ridge Ave., to construct a detached garage one foot from the side property line. Phillip Edwards, 1636 Spring Ave., to build an attached garage two feet from the rear and be "commercial all the way."

Official minutes show that the plan group feels that itself and the City Council should regulate and limit such development.

Morgan noted that he had met with planner Thomas Wobbe and City Engineer Monroe Brewer and that they proposed adding a paragraph to Plan 7-2, the section on non-conforming use.

The proposed change would allow reconstruction of damaged property with City Council approval—if the lot was 100 percent and if the same building size and same type of business were restored.

The Plan Commission took a stand opposing such a change. It favors leaving the present procedure rules as they are, regarding the perpetuation of non-conforming property.

At a special Plan Commission meeting held earlier, a new zoning map was discussed with Realtors Francis Judd, Ray Kaegel and Ralph Morrison.

Kaegel asked why R-5 (single-family residence) zoning was shown for the northeast corner of Wabash Avenue and Ponton Road. Engineer Brewer responded that the zoning was retained from the existing map.

Judd asked why some lots in North Granite exceed Oaklawn Terrace requirements or enjoy the same classification, R-1, when there is a big difference between the two residential areas.

Brewer said present North Granite lots meet those requirements.

Roy McGee of the Plan Commission commented that the commission has tried to maintain the same areas as before for R-1, including the same square footage stipulations. He noted that land east of Namecki Drive is R-1 and west of Namecki Drive is R-2.

Brewer discussed mobile homes, saying it is the City Council's intention to eventually get away from the practice of allowing individual mobile homes on lots, instead encouraging that they be located in mobile home parks.

Wobbe said the zoning ordinance provides for a mobile home park on an industrial area along the north side of Adam Street is listed as commercial on the new map. He urged that it be left M-1, manufacturing, instead of being designated as commercial.

Members of the Granite City Board of Realtors advised the commission that the board favors commercial zoning for the north side of Johnson Road. Commissioners opposed such zoning, saying Johnson does not have the capacity to handle the traffic it might be generated.

Another board position questioned widespread commercial zoning in an area south of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Commissioners agreed that the area marked for commercial should be limited to property immediately adjacent to SEMC, with the remainder left residential.

State Rep. Monroe Flinn as predicting that city income tax authorization would not pass in the legislature.

The Intergovernmental Committee's report follows:

1. "A local income tax is implemented to provide revenue without further straining the property tax."

2. "Given a healthy, expanding economy, local revenues would increase automatically. Other states have found the income tax has a strong growth rate."

3. "A local income tax is a potential means of providing relief to many retired persons and young people trying to buy a home whose income restraints hamper their ability to pay rising property tax bills. An income tax limits the amount of property tax growth."

4. "Any shift from property taxes reduces the importance of equalization. Local officials and taxpayers have long been concerned with the inherent weaknesses in assessing practices which allow disparity between individuals and adjacent counties."

5. "The increasing number of exemptions in the Illinois Revised Statutes point to the lack of satisfaction with the property tax. The growth in exceptions to property tax laws is eroding the tax base."

6. "It provides the ability to tap 'fair share' resources from non-resident commuters."

7. "The ability to use payroll deductions as the method of payment will be a convenience for taxpayers. It will eliminate the need to maintain tax savings account and will spread the payment periods to a year-round basis."

8. "The property tax is regressive; falling disproportionately on the poor, who generally spend a larger portion of their income on property taxes than do the wealthy. An income tax is progressive with higher rates for those with larger incomes."

9. "Even when the property tax is the only local tax, an income tax may still be a more sensitive measure of fiscal capacity. Studies have shown that income is the best single explanatory variable for government expenditures. The federal government uses a per capita income measure of wealth for each state in nearly all its equalization aid programs, regardless of a state's mix of tax types."

10. "Disadvantages of a local earnings tax—
1. "It complicates the total Illinois tax structure."
2. "A local income tax would quickly and easily segregate a community and deter area growth. Additional layers of tax curb industrial and business expansion. Consequently, a local income tax may affect the production and employment segments of the community with sufficient disadvantages to displace the benefits."
3. "Due to the sensitivity of the income tax to economic variables, economically impacted areas would gain very little under a local income tax, particularly during recession."
4. "A reduction in the reliance on the property tax may be welcomed, but the great increase in local government spending in recent years suggests reductions in the property tax may be temporary, at best. The local government burden on the property tax will continue to rise with or without a local income tax."
5. "Where a local income tax exists, it tends to limit the success of property tax referenda and thus may impair the ability of other taxing districts to increase revenues.

6. "When a local income tax is authorized for one unit of government, others will seek access to the new source. The demands of other units of government limit the benefit of all."

7. "A local income tax does not adequately address the subject of bond sales. The individuals who have previously purchased bonds, bought them knowing the bonds were backed by property taxes. Future bonds will be harder to sell without the stability of property taxes."

8. "The property tax is relatively unaffected by current economic conditions and prevents taxpayers from hiding assets by the use of paper deductions and exemptions which are available in the income tax system."

9. "Some local services are more directly related to property than to income. Police, fire protection and sanitation are some examples."

10. "Representative Sam Wolf and his advisors said it would be a remote possibility to get an income tax passed, and would present high costs in administration and enforcement problems to the city."

"They recommended to go with a sales tax. If the state's sales tax items, it could be administered by the state for the city. This would be an equitable tax based on the ability to pay and administered by the state."

"There is a case before the courts challenging this type of law."

"However, it is the recommendation of the Intergovernmental Committee that the city attorney research the current case, and, if the court approves of this tax for local units, an ordinance providing for a city sales tax of one percent—only for items already taxed by the State of Illinois—be brought in for Council consideration."

11. "The property tax is regressive; falling disproportionately on the poor, who generally spend a larger portion of their income on property taxes than do the wealthy. An income tax is progressive with higher rates for those with larger incomes."

12. "Even when the property tax is the only local tax, an income tax may still be a more sensitive measure of fiscal capacity. The wedding of Miss Julia Darlene Von Nida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris W. Von Nida, 232 E. 24th St., and Mr. Darrell Ray Pare, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn G. Pare, 3261 Carlson Ave., was solemnized on June 27 at Grace Baptist Church.

Organist Larry Christian accompanied Nick and Alicia Popelnick as they sang, "The Wedding Song," "Our Prayer," and "The Lord's Prayer," prior to the 6 p.m. ceremony performed by the Rev. Louis Brinker.

Citadelers were Alice Morawiec, a sister of the bride, and Mary Kay Pare, the groom's sister-in-law.

For her wedding, the bride selected a full length white Chantilly lace over taffeta gown fashioned with a fitted bodice.

Queen Anne neckline, and bishop sleeves. Her bouffant lace skirt was designed with tiers of organza at the back which extended into a chapel train.

She wore a Camelot cap of lace and seed pearls to secure her fingertip veil of Chantilly lace edged with a gathered organza ruffle. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses, white lily of the valley intermingled with lilac orchids and violets.

Mrs. Vickie Perry was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids included Miss Melanie Wilson, Miss Martha Cornett and Mrs. Christine Potillo, a sister of the bride.

They were gownned alike in lilac Wedgewood lace over taffeta dresses accented with white Venice lace on the fitted bodices and sweetheart necklines and they were worn with lace stoles.

Each attendant carried a bouquet of violets centered with a white orchid.

Tracie Potillo and Joshua Grobowski, a niece and nephew of the bride, served as the flower girl and ringbearer.

She wore a frock identical to the adult attendants and she carried a lace basket filled with silk blossoms.

The groom chose his brother, Alan Pare, as best man. Groomsman and ushers were Phil Whitehead, Todd Duval, Roger Moore, Keith Miles, Jeff Parker and Steve Morawiec, the bride's brother-in-law.

Ann Potillo, a niece of the bride, attended the guest book and those assisting with the reception held in the church fellowship hall were, Sue Backhart, Lois Chapline, Merle Price, Martha Whitehead and Marge Wueblich.

The rehearsal dinner was also held in the church hall. The newlywed couple took a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks and are now residing in Granite City.

Both young people were graduated from South High School in 1977 and the bride is currently attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville where she is studying speech pathology and audiology.

The groom was graduated from SIUE in June with a degree in accounting.

Baking demonstration Sunday

The bake ovens at Fort de Chartres State Historic Site will be fired Sunday for a free demonstration of bread baking in the 18th century.

Bread was a staple for the early French settlers and the men that garrisoned Fort de Chartres. So much wheat was grown and flour ground, that it was a major export item from this area to Europe in the 1700's.

The bake ovens, built from clay and straw, were first filled with a roaring fire. Once the fire burnt down it was scraped out. The ovens retained the heat from the fire, were then ready for the dough. Bread was put in the ovens first, then cakes or cookies, as they would not take as long to bake and would have to be removed first.

This free demonstration will start at 10 on Sunday, Aug. 23. Fort de Chartres State Historic Site is located four miles West of Prairie du Rocher, Ill. on Highway 155.

What rainbows do we chase? Is it a symptom of modern advertising fever that we spend so much time wishing for things we do not have, wishing to be things we will never be? What victims of modern life we have become if we believe in things that will never be real for us. It is impossible to live an existence dictated by, for example, the television soap opera, and to be real to those around us. Those people we live with, the ones made with imperfect skin, hair, teeth — they are the ones to whom our love is most important, and for whom the realities of our lives should not be neglected.

Through understanding and knowledgeable awareness of the inevitabilities of life, one is able to face even the emotionally difficult times of the passing of a dear one with a sense of perspective. MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES offers the experience, professionalism, facility and individualized attention that helps to put phases of life into its proper perspective. Let us assist you in your hour of need with the emotional understanding, empathy and physical services you require.

Legionnaires' mystery solved

(Illinois Lung Association) Medical mysteries can prove more perplexing than author Agatha Christie at her best.

A case in point is Legionnaires' disease which, since 1976, has been a medical who-dunit.

In that year, Philadelphia's celebration of the nation's bicentennial was shattered as 34 visiting American Legionnaires died of mysterious causes.

After months of laboratory investigation, scientific sleuths from the federal government's Centers for Disease Control found that bacteria were responsible for the disease now called Legionellosis.

(Attacking the lungs, the bacteria causes flu-like symptoms and, in some cases, death.

Now, a lot more is known about this scientific baffler.

For instance, although difficult, diagnosis now can be done. A drug, erythromycin, has been found to be effective against Legionnaires' disease.

But the case is not closed—the hunt is now on for a vaccine, an antidote for the bacteria which seem to thrive in water. They have been isolated from cooling towers, ponds, reservoirs and from clear—as well as stagnant—water.

Researches have also discovered the disease is far more widespread than first suspected. It has struck in virtually every state, and affects 125,000 persons every year.

It existed long before the festive Legionnaires gathered in Philadelphia; it just had not been recognized.

Who does it? The cause is bacteria.

Treatment? Now available. A vaccine in the future? Maybe.

Group expanding radio services for blind people

At a meeting in Springfield, Illinois Radio Information Services adopted a new constitution and bylaws and a new name, Iris Associates.

Elected unanimously as president was Father B. L. Vittenbrink, radio services founder at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows in Belleville.

Dr. Robert L. Milkman, director of instructional technology at Western Illinois University, Macomb, was elected vice-president.

Bob Eastman, manager of WSSR-FM, Sangamon State University, Springfield, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Purpose of Iris Associates is to promote and encourage the establishment and operation of the subcarrier channels of FM radio stations for the reading of printed materials to the blind and other print handicapped persons in Illinois.

Presently, the following stations are in operation: RISS-WMMY-FM Belleville, RISS-WILL-FM Champaign, RISS-WDEZ-FM Chicago, RISS-WNIU-FM DeKalb, RISS-WDM-FM Macomb, RISS-WVUC-FM Mt. Carmel and RISS-WSSR-FM Springfield.

In the planning stages are RISS-WCBU-FM in Peoria and RISS-WSIU-FM in Carbondale.

Governor James R. Thompson has just signed House Bill 805, which provides $240,853 from general revenue funds to the Illinois State Library to assist stations throughout the state to continue their radio reading service for the blind.

In preparing a formal resolution to thank the governor for signing the bill and the secretary of state; as chief librarian, for administering the funds, Wittenbrink said:

"We must not forget the legislators who voted for this much-needed funding. Special thanks are due Senator Kenneth Hall (D) and Representative Celeste Stiehl (R) who introduced the special amendment to the house bill.

"Illinois radio information services understand we must still develop 75 percent of our budget from local communities, and we accept that challenge.

"Without the assistance of civic, religious and fraternal organizations and the many generous volunteers who serve as broadcasters in other capacities, there would be no radio reading services in Illinois.

By signing House Bill 805, the governor has established a living memorial to the blind and handicapped of Illinois during 1981, the United Nations' International Year for the Disabled."

Chamber 'Blitz Days' set for Aug. 25-27

The Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce has set the annual "Chamber Blitz Days" for Tuesday, Aug. 25, through Thursday, Aug. 27.

The "Blitz Days" membership drive will focus on the Nameoki area including all of the shipping centers, the Pontoon Beach and the Mitchell area in addition to other business areas along Nameoki River south of Madison Avenue and on Madison Avenue south to 23rd Street. The primary goal of the Chamber volunteers on these three days is to canvass the merchants in these areas, both members of the Chamber and potential members, to solicit and exchange ideas pertaining to the work done by the Chamber here and to seek new members for the civic and business organization.

Shirley Adams, general chairman of the Chamber ambassadors, will be the chairman for the three-day "Blitz" which coincides with the Chamber of Commerce Week in the Quad-Cities. This week has been designated from Aug. 23 through 29.

Mary Jessee is co-chairman of the membership drive.

Each day will be split into two sessions for the volunteer canvassers with various areas designated for each session by the chairman.

Last year's "Blitz" was concentrated in the Madison area and has been determined as a success by the Chamber volunteers. The Pontoon Beach and Mitchell areas have been designated as starting points this year and a special effort will be made to invite businesses in these areas to become active members in the Chamber.

Literature and answers to many of the questions by the merchants visited will be available during the brief visits by the volunteers.

Any Chamber members wishing to volunteer their services during the three-day "Blitz" are asked to contact the Chamber office by Monday, Aug. 23. Anyone who is interested in joining the Chamber of Commerce during this membership drive or have questions about the Chamber can contact the Chamber office.

Assemblies of God to open convention sessions today

More than 2,000 ordained women ministers have pre-registered for the 39th General Convention of the Assemblies of God which convenes this afternoon at the Cervantes Convention Center in St. Louis.

More than 2,000 ordained and licensed women ministers now hold credentials with the Assemblies of God. The church, which is the largest Pentecostal denomination in the world with over 10 million members, has ordained women since its beginning in 1914.

Women enter the ministry as evangelists, writers, teachers, missionaries, and pastors, and as such are entitled to carry out the full responsibilities of the ministry such as baptizing new members, receiving members into the church, performing marriages, and officiating at funerals.

Women have played a significant role in the church's 67-year history. Many serve as missionaries in the 100 countries where the Assemblies of God work. Among these is the Rev. Maxine Strobbridge, a missionary to Korea who directs an orphanage for deaf children.

Several lay missionaries serve as nurses and midwives in remote parts of Africa. Others author study materials for the church's International Correspondence Institute and still others teach in the 204 foreign Bible schools sponsored by the church.

Many women are also actively involved in the pulp ministry in churches in the United States. The Rev. Blanche Ficus, founding pastor of the North West Assembly of God in Indianapolis, Ind., also has an active radio and television ministry.

The Rev. Amee Cortese is a chaplain in the New York Department of Corrections. In addition, she has been active in drug rehabilitation programs and the Teen Challenge Ministries.

Rev. Doris Fellows of Kenai, Alaska, has for many years done pioneer missionary work in that state. Women evangelists have also been common in the church since its earliest days, preaching, revivals and establishing churches.

Laywomen have also played a major role in the development and growth of the denomination. In 1951 a national women's department was formed which has become a major arm of ministry for the more than 9,700 local assemblies.

Laywomen, Edith Whipple, was appointed the first director of this department, now known as Women's Ministries. An ordained woman minister, the Rev. Elva Hoover, directs the affairs of the department today.

The department has contributed more than $71 million to the ministries of the church since its inception. During the past two years, the women have contributed over $10 million to these ministries.

Presently, some 230 women ministers serve as pastors, 83 as home missionaries, 288 as foreign missionaries, with the remainder serving ministries such as evangelists, teachers, writers, and musicians.

Smoke detectors recalled

William L. Kempners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, has announced the recall of commercial and residential smoke detectors manufactured by the Chloride Pyrotec Division of Chloride, Inc., Hingham, Mass.

He said the recall is being conducted voluntarily by the company in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

"Some of the firm's 185,000 smoke detectors manufactured from March 1979 to March 1981 may contain a defective microchip. These defective chips may prevent the alarm from sounding," Kempners said.

Owners of any of the following smoke detectors have been asked by the manufacturer to remove the back plate in order to check the model number: Chloride Pyrotec Models 3077, 3078, or 3079; and Archer, number 2545, sold through Radio Shack.

Also, involved are Masterguard, MGB360; Vanguard B7; and Protecta Systems P365. These models also will have a six-digit date code showing dates between 03/80 and 03/81. A sixth detector, Vantage 1 does not have a model number.

Potentially defective detectors may be tested by inserting a fresh 9-volt battery and pressing the test button. If the horn sounds, the detector does not contain a defective microchip. If the horn does not sound, the user should call Roberta Calla of Chloride Pyrotec, toll free, at 1-800-343-5647 for instructions on where to find the product for free replacement or repair.

Consumers who want to verify the model number should call the toll free hotline at 1-800-630-8326.

Gasification tax breaks

A measure newly signed by Governor James R. Thompson will offer more favorable tax treatment to Illinois coal gasification projects.

Sponsored by Senator Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) and Representative Ralph Dunn (R-DuQuoin) and endorsed by the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, the law will permit coal gasification facilities to be assessed for property taxes in the same manner as pollution control equipment.

Until this legislation was signed, according to the local senator, the valuation of coal gasification equipment for property taxes was undefined.

"Many people in government and industry who have been interested in developing our coal resources felt that—without clearer language as to the tax treatment of coal gasification equipment—property taxes could be assessed at levels that would discourage the construction of these facilities in Illinois."

"Our coal industry and our whole state economy need the development of these plants very badly," Vadalabene said.

Rep. Dunn said, "A number of coal producing states have already acted to reduce or eliminate property tax liability for coal gasification projects. I am confident this new law will demonstrate that Illinois is an attractive state for the commercial development of new coal-based energy and industrial facilities."

The disabled 1975 Ford pickup truck of Donald R. Thomas, 2160 Robert Ave., was stolen during the K Mart parking lot, authorities were told Monday night. The vehicle had a red and white camper.

Air quality called city responsibility

Granite City aldermen on Tuesday night acknowledged an Illinois Environmental Protection Agency public notice of intent to grant an air-pollution variance permit to Granite City Steel.

The permit will allow deviations from air quality standards during replacement of the plant's old "C" coke oven battery with a new battery of ovens, it was related.

Alderman Carl Kittel said he is concerned that, with the consolidation of city departments this summer, the city may lose its effectiveness in curbing air pollution.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer said his time is limited but that he has been spending as much time as he can familiarizing himself with the activities and objectives of the city's air quality program. He has not yet completed the familiarization.

Mayor Paul Schuler conceded that the economy-related reduction of city employees will have some impact on the municipality's ability to meet its responsibilities.

A council discussion brought out that there is extensive air monitoring here by the state EPA.

Kittel urged adherence to a goal of "no letdown in service" to the public. He said, "The health and welfare of the people of Granite City are at stake."

Approval was given to create a handicapped parking space along 20th Street adjacent to a Granite City Public Library entrance.

Two men in wheelchairs were present, and one of them urged the aldermen to authorize the proposed on-street parking site, rather than designating one within the library parking lot.

A resident pointed out to a newsman during the council meeting that the mayor's auto was in a Township Building parking space designated for handicapped motorists.

The resident also pointed it out after the meeting to Mayor Schuler, who acknowledged the presence of such a sign and said, "I didn't see it."

Alderman Paul Fisk offered prayer to begin the meeting, which was held at the Township Building instead of the City Hall to afford access for the handicapped. About 40 persons attended.

The Granite City Trust and Savings Bank was authorized to place nine benches at bus stops and on the City Hall lawn.

Illinois Power Co. was empowered to excavate along an alley at the rear of 1711-77 Spruce St. and in front of 1711 Spruce to install a gas main serving the Granite City Army Installation. The work will be done between Aug. 31 and Sept. 18.

The Illinois Commerce Commission will hold a hearing in Chicago Sept. 14 on a proposed monthly rate for a new Illinois Bell Telephone Co. portable communications terminal.

Possible election of ICC commissioners and a review of utility rate procedures by the ICC will be the topics of an Aug. 26 meeting in Belleville of the Southwestern Illinois Conference of Mayors. Mayor Schuler urged attendance by aldermen.

Notice was received of a public meeting in St. Louis Sept. 9 on Alton lock and dam replacement work.

Illinois Transportation Department approval was received for an additional $211,375 in motor fuel taxes for Granite City street maintenance, $1,500 for work on a 25th Street railroad crossing predicting mechanism, $17,977 for work on St. Clair Avenue, and $3,000 for flashing lights at the Nameoki Drive railroad crossing.

It was noted that a ribbon cutting ceremony for the public will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the site of new traffic lights at Jill Avenue and Nameoki Road.

Controls enabling emergency vehicles to automatically obtain green lights at the Jill-Nameoki intersection have been unavailable but are now being obtained, the council was told.

Alice Nolan, 4734 Lake Drive, was authorized to install a mobile home at 2338 Cayuga St.

Navy Mothers Club $50 will sell "Navy Boy Tags" Sept. 10-11 in local business districts.

Amvets Post 51 and its Auxiliary plan a Veterans' Day program at 11 a.m. Nov. 11 on the lawn of the City Hall and will invite scout troops and other veterans' groups to participate.

REPORTS BURGLARY
Among the items taken in a burglary at the home of Gladys Harper, 210 Adams St., reported at 4:20 p.m. Tuesday, were a black and white television, a musical jewelry box containing assorted costume jewelry, four glasses, four cans of beer, a "piggy" bank with over $9 inside, silver dollars, a Kennedy half-dollar key ring and about $6 in bills. A orick was used to break window glass in two doors to gain access to the dwelling.

Downtown game room approved

A coin-operated game room at 1218 Nineteenth St. for those aged 18 and older was authorized for Nelson Hediger Jr. in a 9-4 City Council vote Tuesday night.

Approving were Aldermen Everett Morlen, Warren Decatur, Paul Bowler, Paul Fisk, Mac Warfield, Michael Modest, Casmer Skubish, Sharon Perjak and Steve Saltsch.

Opposed were Aldermen Sam Whitmer, Fred P. Schuman Jr., Carl Kittel and Jake Varadian. Mrs. Margaret Nong was absent.

Hediger said he has operated Lord Nelson's clothing store in the downtown area for over 10 years and that his father operates the Travelodge motor hotel and has been in business here for 25 years.

Citing problems in retaining a high business volume in the central business district, Hediger said coin games such as "space invaders" would help attract and keep retail business as well as providing needed entertainment for young people.

He added that the game room would be helpful in obtaining motel trade, much like the game area at the Collinsville Holiday Inn Holdmore.

Hediger said it was necessary to seek new license because he lost his lease on a former location, and now will install "the machines in Hediger-owned property. He said it would be unfair to deny him a permit while similar businesses are being allowed to operate in Granite City.

Alderman Whitmer accused him of ignoring the minimum age law and allowing youngsters appearing to be 12 or 13 years old to operate coin games.

Alderman Bowler suggested that the age minimum be changed. He pointed out that, aided by computerized games on home television screens, the public attitude toward children playing coin devices may be changing.

Hediger promised to comply with whatever age rule is set by the city, and pledged to halt operation of games by 10 p.m. each day.

Alderman Varadian said he has contacted many downtown businesses and residents and has talked to school officials. He concluded that 99 percent oppose a game room in the downtown area.

Varadian voiced concern that it might attract school drop-outs.

Council members were unsure whether such a center might divert young people from study and other constructive activities or, on the other hand, might lure them away from negative pursuits, such as street corner loitering.

All seemed to concede that the place probably would be busy and might add to the volume of police work.

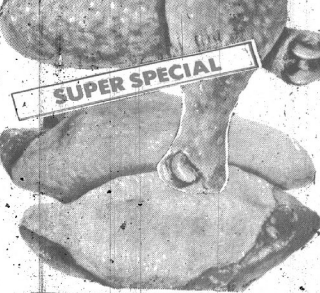

Whitmer said game rooms apparently are lucrative. He succeeded in authorizing a Finance Committee study of a possible increase in the license fee for such rooms and for individual machines.

Alderman Schuman, a school administrator, portrayed game rooms as "not healthy" for the community.

Immediately before Hediger addressed the aldermen, there was an identical 9-4 vote to approve a Nameoki Village Shopping Center amusement arcade that had been rejected at the previous council meeting.

Alderman Decatur urged reversal of the decision, saying it would be operated by an honorable man and that it is viewed as an asset to the shopping center. Schuman disagreed, calling it "not healthy."

County may freeze fringes

By ED GOURNEY
A freeze would be placed on additional fringe benefits for Madison County employees under a proposal made by the county board's personnel committee.

The purpose of the proposal is to keep the county fiscally sound, said Fred Dalton of Collinsville, chairman of the personnel committee.

"I personally never want to see the county get in the position to have to lay off needed employees because of a lack of money," Dalton told fellow county board members Wednesday.

Dalton noted that some municipalities, including

Granite City and East St. Louis, have had to lay off workers because of financial problems.

Although consideration of the resolution was on Wednesday's county board agenda, Dalton said the resolution was not being introduced at that time.

He said after the meeting that it was felt this was "a bad time to bring it up."

A county board committee is currently negotiating a new contract with representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The resolution could hurt those negotiations, he said. The resolution is expected to be introduced at a later time. Dalton termed fringe benefits "a hidden cost" not usually considered when the cost of employees is discussed.

William Webb of Granite City, a member of the county board negotiating committee, said the committee is conscious of the problem. Unions have been told they're pricing people out of jobs, he said.

Some employees have been laid off because of fringe benefits, Webb said.

Safety seminar for farmers

Dr. Michael E. Beatty, MD will conduct a seminar on how to react to farm accidents. The seminar will be held Tuesday, Aug. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville.

Dr. Beatty specializes in micro surgery or the reattachment of limbs. There will be factual materials presented. This is an informative meeting to benefit all farmers.

The grain auger will be the star of the seminar — as it accounts for a high percentage of farm injuries. Safety is to be stressed in this session for there is no substitute for careful operation of machinery.

Those who fail to follow these safety precautions should attend in order to learn what micro surgeons can do.

Homes are more attainable here than in most areas

A home in suburbia is still the goal of most Americans but it's moving farther out of reach due to price and mortgage escalation. The outlook is bleak everywhere, but fortunately, the metropolitan area is faring better than most.

Of 15 areas surveyed by the National Association of Realtors on monthly principal and interest payments, the most expensive were San Francisco ($1,043), Los Angeles ($1,234), Washington, D. C. ($1,049) and New York City ($976).

Second least expensive was the local metropolitan area, with $605 principal and interest on the average price existing home compared to $828 here in 1979, $579 in 1979 and $516 in 1980. Lowest was Pittsburgh with $601.

Total monthly housing costs here of $815 were lowest of all the 15 areas, compared to such figures as $847 in Pittsburgh, $934 in Detroit, $949 in Baltimore, $968 in Atlanta, $986 in Philadelphia, $1,009 in Chicago, $1,073 in Milwaukee, $1,102 in Minneapolis, $1,163 in Boston, $1,166 in Houston, $1,310 in Washington, $1,371 in New York, $1,441 in Los Angeles and $1,731 in San Francisco; the latter more than twice the local cost.

A breakdown of the $815 monthly local figure shows $605 for the mortgage, $95 in real estate taxes, $23 for hazard insurance and $93 for utilities.

With average annual family income of $29,840 in 1981, St. Louis area home owners find themselves paying 32.8 percent of gross income for housing. In 1978, they paid 25.8 percent of their $20,487 average income.

In San Francisco, the typical income totals $31,470 but housing costs consume a whopping 66 percent of that amount; in New York, 62.2 percent.

Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist of the Realtors Association, says, "The increase in the overall cost of single-family homes nationally in the last three years has been devastating. Since 1978, housing costs have jumped 60 percent and mortgage rates have doubled due to record high interest rates, rising home prices and related expenses."

"So far this year, monthly payments for principal and interest on the average-price home financed with an 80 percent, 30-year mortgage amount to $810, or 112 percent higher than the 1978 monthly payment of $382."

"For the average household, the 1981 mortgage payment is 37 percent of family income, compared with 22 percent three years ago. And the payment itself reflects only about two-thirds of the cost of owning and maintaining a home."

"We join with the housing health of the housing market throughout the country depends on reversing the upturn in home ownership costs."

Against utility tax and home rule

To the Editor:
 It is a shame that our Madison city fathers do not have the foresight to realize the economic impact that five percent utility tax will have on the city and its citizens on a fixed income. Are do our city fathers really care?

The five percent utility tax is a rip-off.
 The mayor did not explain that the utility tax is an each utility separately, and not all utilities combined.

This tax on each utility separately comes to more than five percent because of the fee the company charges for handling the paper work.
 That is the tax money, going to be used for? Will it increase our police protection with more police officers, or just add another burden on the citizen?

Will the tax raise the morale of our volunteer fire department, the police department, and the street department? Their morale is at an all-time low.
 Will the tax money be used to increase the manpower of the street department and get all the inter-city streets cleaned and snowed during the winter and summer months, or just a select few streets?

Will the tax money be used to increase the pay of all city employees, or just the administrators of those departments?
 Will it go to benefit the people of the city or to build the mini-mall and cable TV?

A man about age 25, held a .38 caliber revolver, on the clerk at the Kerk-McGee service station, 425 McCann bridge, Madison, and took $200 in cash at 9:50 p.m. Wednesday.

The armed robber walked in, pointed the pistol at the attendant, and said, "Hang up the phone, open the cash drawer and make it fast."

The man then fled across McCambridge Avenue to Fourth Street and then east on Fourth Street, getting into what was believed to be a 1962 to 1968 white over blue Oldsmobile.

Police were alerted by the emergency alarm. The armed robber was described as wearing a black wig and a green Army jacket.

Madison police have in custody a man charged with armed robbery of the same service station at 9:27 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 14.

Roofing contract awarded by county without bids

By ED GURNEY
 The Madison County board Wednesday agreed to award a roof replacement contract without seeking sealed bids, but decided to ask for bids on a second project.

The board accepted the reasoning that replacement of the roof on the old Bank of Edwardsville building, is an emergency situation and warrants a deviation from normal bidding procedures.

The contract was given to Lakeside Roofing of Granite City at a cost of $29,850. The vote was 22-1, with Don McLean of Edwardsville dissenting.

"I really think it would be a healthy thing for the county board to receive bids on this," McLean said.

James Prandean of Alhambra, a member of the county board building committee, said the old bank building is leaking from the fifth floor to the bottom.

"The longer you let it go, the more it's going to cost," he said.

The state's attorney's office advised that the purchase is legal, Prandean said.

Non-sealed price quotes were received from Lakeside and Jim Taylor Enterprises of Belleville. Four other firms looked at the building, but decided not to seek the bid, Prandean said.

Herbert "Junior" Milton of Granite City, another building committee member, said attempts were made to repair the roof.

"There was no way we could patch it," he said.

The roof was damaged by a tornado last April. Insurance covers $8,000 of the cost.

Pred Dalton of Collinsville said he believes that a project costing that much should be opened to bidding. However, he said he would not object.

Second robbery at Madison station

To the Editor:
 How would you like to turn a $20-per-week savings account into a $300-per-week income when you retire?

If you find that hard to believe, I call to your attention a little-publicized feature of President Reagan's tax package — Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs).

Under the landmark tax legislation just passed by Congress, all American workers, as of Jan. 1, 1982, will be entitled to open such accounts whether or not they are participants in an employer-sponsored pension plan.

Here is how an IRA works. The worker may deposit up to $2,000 per year ($2,500 for a taxpayer with a non-working spouse) in a special savings account set up with a bank, insurance company, mutual fund, savings and loan or stock brokerage firm.

The deposits and the interest or other earnings on them are excused from tax until retirement age. You may begin withdrawal from the account when you reach age 59½; withdrawals made before the age are subject to tax and a penalty.

These new provisions put a self-sufficient retirement within reach of the average working American.

Suppose you are now 35 years old and earn $24,000 a year for your family of four. The national median income for a family of four is less than $20 per week, and so do until you are age 65, when a decent $1,000 deposit from the income you report each year for tax purposes.

That provision in itself will reduce your yearly federal income tax burden by about $220, meaning that of the $20 per week you deposit, Uncle Sam is "contributing" $4.23 of that in the form of a lower tax bill.

The long-range benefits are even more impressive. If you save $1,000 a year for 30 years and earn, say, eight percent interest (a conservative figure now and for the foreseeable future), at age 65 you will have a retirement fund totaling $133,770 — all of that generated from just $30,000 in deposits.

If you decided to pay yourself an annuity from your account for a 15-year period, then you would have an income of just over $300 per week. Combined with Social Security and a company pension, this would make for a comfortable, secure retirement.

Naturally, these amounts would be greater if you are able to save more than $1,000 per year or earn a higher rate of interest or return.

It is clear that an IRA provides a financial benefit for the average family.

But the promise of IRAs goes beyond the individual worker.

When President Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act into law on Aug. 14, 1935, he declared, "We have tried to frame a law that will give some measure of protection to the average citizen and to his family against poverty-ridden old age."

Let's have a change. Run the schools 12 months a year, 20 to 25 percent of the buildings and employees can be eliminated at a savings of $200,000 or more.

News notes

Talks between the Granite City school district and its employees' groups are continuing this week, with no agreements yet reached on pay for the term opening next year.

Two four-year terms on the Granite City School Board are being sought by the two incumbents, President Thomas Mofsky and Monroe Worthen, as well as Mrs. Valerie Stevens, Raymond McGee and Donald Gargac. A two-year term is sought by incumbent Dewey Melton and by Alan Crider and Gargac, who will decide by Monday which position to seek. Crider, a former school administrator, is the brother of former board member Robert Crider.

Vehicle speed checks by airplane will take place tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. to noon on Interstate 270 at a half-mile east of Route 111, and Monday, Aug. 24, on I-64 a mile east of Route 157.

National Steel Corp. plans a 6 percent price rise on tin mill products Sept. 20, U.S. Steel said. The rise, which would increase, but not double, the price of tin mill products.

Illinois State Police are negotiating with SIUE to buy or lease land on the university campus to build a communications tower. State police had to dismantle their tower at the university's WSIE-FM radio station antenna since then.

Jerry A. Hall, 20, Arlington Heights, was booked at 1:25 p.m. Monday on four counts alleging criminal damage to property occurring earlier this summer. He was released on $1,302 cash bail.

When asked in a recent survey if the system, by itself, should provide enough money to support retirees, respondents disagreed by a 50-57 percent margin.

Clearly, most Americans are even more impressed by the individual initiatives such as personal savings, investments and pensions carried out by individuals than they are by the primary responsibility for providing for retirement.

Retirement Accounts reaffirms this important principle.

I'm not suggesting that saving $20 a week is an easy task with the family budget already as tight as it is. But by doing so, we would not only help ourselves; we'd help each other too — because any job, should bear the primary responsibility for providing for retirement.

Turn small weekly savings into a comfortable retirement income; realize immediate benefits in the form of reduced tax payments.

Contribute to capital formation which will mean increased productivity and prosperity; and relieve the intense pressure on the Social Security system to provide a complete retirement income, something it was never meant to do.

These are the opportunities we can seize by participating in Individual Retirement Accounts. Any way you look at it, it's a winning proposition for each person and our nation.

Top priority for second new river lock in this area

Alton Telegraph—That second lock for Dam No. 26 got another bit of help last week. The Army Corps of Engineers got it top billing to be built between 1982 and 1994 in a long-range study it has completed.

The study is the first of its kind to be made by the Corps in 70 years. It was intended to outline needed work on inland waterways.

Not to be forgotten is the fact that the second lock on the new dam now being constructed below Alton will make its facilities match the lock-through capacity already provided in the Clinton County Canal just below where the new dam is being built now.

The dam originally was planned to provide two locks, the Clinton County locks facilities in capacity. Then, the economists and anti-water transport folks got busy.

The Corps and supporters of deep waterways have been striving ever since to restore the second lock.

Latest objection of the conservationists and deep waterway opponents has been that the rivers through the mid-continent are drying up. Siltling is cited as the cause for the decreasing depth of these rivers.

And siltling is blamed on dams which slow the rivers' current, therefore causing sedimentation.

The Engineers, of course, could remind these folks of all the years they have become familiar with the problem of sedimentation. Dredges needed to keep navigable channels were a familiar sight along the Mississippi and its tributaries, and hundreds of buoys were needed to mark the channels.

Canage passing through the Alton locks during the past year certainly bears promise that the added capacity will not be needed in the future. It increased by more than a million tons, or 2.7 percent over the previous year.

The big future problem will be to keep the barge traffic moving—and relieve the years of picking and anchoring, which have bedeviled those seeking to maintain the scenic characteristics of parkways along the river shores.

"I'm tickled" to the rest of the population. This is also a tickle to the farmer, the horse, the cow, the sparrows, can eat. The people had better be happy! It's almost too late."

Urges 12-month school year

To the Editor:
 The school bargaining may be in a decisive stage but the taxpayer is going to sign a report telling them how many teachers and students we had each year in school.

Let's have a change. Run the schools 12 months a year, 20 to 25 percent of the buildings and employees can be eliminated at a savings of $200,000 or more.

The old saying (we always did it that way) just don't work. We need a change, so efficiency experts to check the schools and all employees and we will know there is a better way not so costly, for the taxpayer.

Door opened for new betting system at Fairmount

By RICK WELLE
For the Press-Record

A new contract ratified by the general population of the local, mutual clerks union Monday night has opened the doors for a new betting system at Fairmount Park.

The Service Employees International Union Local 624 adopted an agreement reached between union negotiators and Fairmount Park after months of contract talks. It reportedly means a pay increase of $20 per night for the clerks while allowing Fairmount Park to install the new betting system.

"The issues were of great concern to the union members and of great concern to us," said Roger Smith, executive vice-president and general manager of Fairmount Park. The concern on both sides, he said, drew out the negotiations since February.

Monday night the union membership agreed to the terms reached between the two negotiating committees. The actual contract is in the process of being drawn up and hopefully will be signed within two weeks, according to Smith.

Fairmount's parent company, Ogden Leisure, Inc., is currently talking with the manufacturer of the system, Smith said, and it hopes to have the system installed and operational by Jan. 1.

Fairmount Park had discussed putting in the new self-cash mutual system, a form of one-stop betting for racing fans, but had to first win the approval of the mutual clerks union.

Reportedly, some of the mutual clerks on the lower end of the seniority scale might be cut back on the number of days they will work during the course of a week.

"There is always the fear of people when you go to an automated system they'll lose jobs," Smith said. "We don't know what our staff is going to be."

He said the object of the new contract was to protect as many of the workers as possible on paper.

The new self-cash system is the latest step in track betting, according to Smith. The system allows a bettor to place all types of bets, whether it be in the daily double or simply a $2 wager. Under the current duplex system, a bettor has to go to separate windows for each different transaction.

In addition, the bettor can collect his winnings at the same window he purchased the tickets. He may then make wagers on the next race. Smith said that at least in the early stages of the system, a bettor will be able to wager on only one race at a time.

"On a national basis, (the self-cash system) has resulted in about an eight percent increase in the paramutuel handle," Smith said.

He would not comment on the overall cost of system, but did say the cost would be more than that paid for the current system.

Smith said the new system is beneficial to both—customer because of its speed and efficiency and to the mutual clerks because of less margin for error.

Smith also said the system would also be more efficient if Fairmount Park were to go lines in the narrow grandstand areas should be shorter with the self-cash system.

"Off-track betting, recently allowed under state law, would also be more efficient if Fairmount Park were to go in that direction.

"There will be an educational state for some period of time at this location," Smith said, "for both the operators and the management."

Jockey quits the life he loves: 'I got tired of getting hurt'

By JEFF WILSON
For the Press-Record

The day was April 26, and it still burns in the memory of former jockey John Capizzi. "I was on a two-year old and he jumped the inside rail and put me through the stands," Capizzi said.

"The only injuries to Capizzi were some torn ligaments and bruises, but the day meant much more. It was his final time to ride horses professionally.

"I got tired of getting hurt. It seems like every year I rode, I got hurt. The injuries weren't that major, but..."

Capizzi said.

"I thought I knew the horse like a book. I don't know what the hell went on in his head. He just decided he didn't like the fence."

The 33-year-old Capizzi now spends his days at the track on the other side of the fence. He drives the track ambulance at Fairmount Park. But he admittedly misses riding.

"I miss it an awful lot. It's rough watching the horses worked in the morning," Capizzi said. "I miss the action. There was never any money galloping horses."

Capizzi saw his share of action as a jockey before taking the job as ambulance driver. He began riding regularly in 1969, worked horses on a Northern Illinois farm and rode his first race at the Liberty Bell, in Pennsylvania, 12 years ago.

Now Capizzi is forced to view races from a different perspective.

"It's getting easier watching from this side of the fence. It was difficult for a while," Capizzi said. His job also has carried over into caring for the track, a job he had overlooked in the past as a rider.

"They care about the condition the track is in for the horses and riders. When you're riding you take a lot for granted," he said.

Capizzi, at 5-11, 115 pounds, five more than his racing days, is in ways emblematic of an unhappy man.

"I miss the excitement. There's always excitement, but then again you get depressed riding. Just like a baseball player, a rider goes into a slump. But I love riding," Capizzi said.

Capizzi has fond memories about his former racing days. He remembers beating Kentucky Derby Winner Steve Cauthen at Fairmount on Steve Cauthen Day, a day in which Cauthen won three of his four races. "I beat him by a neck," Capizzi said.

He remembers winning five races at Cahokia Downs one night and he remembers winning a stake race worth more than $20,000 last year.

"Those three times really stand out," Capizzi said.

He learned much in his 12 years of racing. "Riding certain horses... that's the name of the game. You can't win anything if you're on a horse that can't run," he said.

For a man riding since he was 5, Capizzi knows horses well. "You can't fear these horses at all. If you do, that's when they nail you," he said.

Capizzi has been really nailed few times. He once broke a collar bone and another time his jaw. Coupled with tears, scrapes and bruises, his injury list is almost complete.

"His future at Fairmount is hopelessly not complete," he said. "I'd like to move up in the office. After putting in 15 years in the business, I think I can do them some good," he said.

Life as an ambulance driver is pretty lonely, according to Capizzi. He lives for the times he can run one of the horses in the morning, because he still loves horses.

"You feel like it's you, God and the horse. It's so peaceful. You feel it was meant to be like this. Then something happens and your world is torn apart," Capizzi said.

Capizzi's world at the track now consists of 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. five days a week. He has only taken two rides to the hospital in the white Country Casual ambulance that sits outside the track at turn four.

"This doesn't keep Capizzi detached from the world he loves. It keeps him in touch with it."

"My heart is still in riding. There isn't a day in my life I don't think about it," Capizzi said.

Humphrey wins feature

Veteran stock car racer Paul Humphrey, of Dupo, Ill., started at the pole position and led every lap of the way, to win the street stock feature last Saturday night at Tri-City Speedway.

The win was Humphrey's first this season in the 20-lap feature.

Duane Whiteman of Pacific, Mo., won the first street stock heat race last Saturday night. Jim Pangel, O'Fallon's Tom Stone and Mark Haas, also from Afton.

Paul Humphrey won the second heat over Chris Brunner of Glencoe, Mo., Jerry Kneemiller, of St. Peters, Mo., and Steve Meyers of Cottage Hills, Ill. That set up the race in which Humphrey won the street competition with his 1969 Ford. Nineteen cars participated in the street competition.

In the limited late model division Rob Jones overtook Mike Barbeau, of St. Charles, Mo., on the tenth lap and won his fifth 20-lap feature of the year.

Jones, from Creve Coeur, started in the eighth row outside, but moved his way through the middle of the pack and led the last three laps.

Following Jones and Barbeau to the finish line were: Mike Cooksey, of Centuria, Ill.; Dick Crane, of Hannibal, Mo.; Bert Griffin, of East Alton; Cecil Lyons, of Virginia, Ill.; and Chuck Lealos of Granite City.

AUTO FACTS
by Harold Chitwood

Each year, the 15,000 parts in a car grow older. Some parts wear out sooner than others because of their functions but many will last the lifetime of the car. It is important to remember that the performance of major systems, such as brakes, steering, suspension, ignition and carburetion depend on the condition of all parts in each system. Also, most systems are dependent upon other systems working properly as well. Another reason that major systems should be checked regularly is that as parts within the system gradually wear out and perform less effectively, many car owners tend, perhaps subconsciously, to adjust their driving habits to compensate for the change.

Like your body, your car needs regular check-ups to make sure it is functioning well. As we get older parts of our body get worn down. This is also true for your auto and BIG 4 CHEVROLET COMPANY suggests you think of us when it's time for that yearly check-up. For "One Great Team Behind Your Car" call us Monday thru Friday 7-6 at 345-5444 or visit 1820 Vandall St. in Collinsville. Taylor returns home as coach

For the Press-Record

"I enjoyed my time that I played at North and I feel like I'm coming home." Tina Taylor's words rang simple and to the point as she talked about her new job as Granite City North's volleyball coach. She is coming home, not that she ever really left it.

Taylor graduated from SIUE this spring with a B.S. in physical education, and at 22 years old will be one of North's youngest coaches ever.

"I think my age might help me in a way to know the girls and know what they want. I'm not that far out of the picture of where they are now," Taylor said in a telephone interview more than a week after she got the job.

She will replace former coach Sharon Bloodworth this fall, but it's not like she will be undertaking a vastly new experience. Taylor assisted Bloodworth last year.

"Right now my goal is to get organized and to find out what talent we do have," Taylor said. In the past the program has had to do a lot of rebuilding. This year will be no different.

"We're a young team. This may be a rebuilding year," she said.

Taylor will not teach at North this year because there are no teaching openings. The volleyball position didn't seem to interest many other teachers in the school district.

"We hired somebody that wasn't a teacher because we have nobody in the school district who wanted the job," Joe Fedora, director of athletics for the Granite City school district, said. This statement was not meant to slight Taylor's qualifications.

"She played four years for North and she was a quality player. We think she can do the job," Fedora said.

The basketball and supporting Taylor enhanced her chances to get the job. Her four years at North and playing two years ago with the United States Volleyball

Shannon golf tourney Sept. 14 in Norwood

ST. LOUIS — Dennis P. Long, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., will serve as honorary chairman of this year's CBC-Mike Shannon Golf Tournament, Monday, September 14, at Norwood Hills Country Club. It was announced.

"CBC High School has provided outstanding education for St. Louis area boys for well over a century and it is a pleasure to be involved in this important fund-raising event," Long said. "With the celebrities lined up for this year's tournament, we think it should be one of the best ever."

Lou Brock, Willie Mays, Joe DiMaggio, Roger Maris, Willie Masconi, Red Schoendienst and Whitey Herzog are slated to be among the celebrities taking part in the event. A tax deductible entry fee of $300 entitles participants to a spot in the tournament and admission to the evening cocktail party and awards banquet. All proceeds go to benefit Christian Brothers College High School.

"Denny Long has been one of the major promoters of soccer and other sports in our area, and I know how effective he can be," Mike Shannon, broadcast voice of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals and CBC alumnus, said. "With this support, we are anticipating significant growth in our tournament this year and beyond."

An amateur from the winning foursome in this year's event will receive a spot to join in the pro-am for the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic, a major stop on the PGA Tour, played at Kingsmill Golf Club in Williamsburg, Virginia. In addition, a Ford Car Coupe will be given away as a door prize.

Through its Michelob golf baggy putters, framed mirrors and pewter steins. Other area businesses and friends of CBC High School will also be providing prizes for the tournament.

For entry information, contact Brother Michael Jordan, F.S.C., or Mike Shannon at 314-721-4732.

Personal habits big health factor

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

A wealth of scientific evidence reveals that the key to whether you live to a healthy, vibrant old age can be found in several personal habits — which you control. Within this century, the occurrence of life-threatening, infectious and communicable diseases has been greatly reduced. People are living beyond the childhood years when communicable diseases used to shorten the life span.

Now, people are living to an age when the degenerative diseases take their toll.

The 10 leading causes of death, which account for as much as half of United States mortality, are the result of unhealthy behavior or lifestyle. Heart, cancer, stroke and kidney diseases, the many forms of cancer and accidents make up the majority of the fatalities.

Cigarette smoking is the most important cause of death that could be prevented. There is no longer any question that cigarette smoking causes most cases of lung cancer — 90,000 a year, in fact.

On the bright side, however, studies show there is a constant decline in death rates from lung cancer for former male cigarette smokers who have abstained for ten years or more. Recent studies show this to be true of women, also.

Cigarette smoking is also a major factor in heart attacks. Even in the absence of other important risk factors, such as high blood pressure and high cholesterol levels, smoking nearly doubles the risk of heart attack for men.

The surgeon general of the United States estimates that 346,000 deaths a year can be attributed to cigarette smoking — cancer of the lung, mouth, esophagus and bladder, and heart attacks, among others.

If you are a smoker who would like to stop, but are having difficulty doing so, the state health department encourages you to switch to a low tar and nicotine brand and decrease the number of cigarettes you smoke.

Another important risk factor is obesity.

It seems, sometimes, that 50 percent of the people are dieting and the other 50 percent should be.

If you are one of the 50 percent who should be, you should know that overweight people are at a greater risk for diabetes, gall bladder disease and high blood pressure.

When you consider the strain that excess pounds put on bodily functions, especially the heart, it makes good sense to stay within 10 percent of the optimal weight for your age and build.

If you are an active person, the chances are you would gradually lose any excess weight by cutting back on the amount of fat, sugar and salt you normally eat.

But don't cut out completely any of the four basic food groups.

Remember, the greatest potential for improving your health and longevity lies in what you do or do not do for yourself.

If you would like a copy of the Health Style test which gives more information about risks you can control, write for "Health Style," Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Education and Information, 535 W. Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Proper harvesting for better quality, yields

By CHRIS DOLLE
Garden Adviser

Being able to harvest vegetables right is a basic reason for gardening. The best quality and condition for culinary usage is found in garden freshness with good timing of the harvest. Late gardens are still producing and proper harvesting should give the best quality and yields available.

Snap or green beans should be picked at the peak of flavor — when they are young and tender. When they are bulging with beans, the pod loses tenderness. For dry beans, wait until a heavy crop of pods has set and matured. Then pull or cut the plants to dry a few days before shelling.

Brussels sprouts are broken off when they are large enough. Usually this is when they are one to one and one-half inches in diameter.

Carrots are ready for use when young and crisp. Repeated plantings are needed for continuous quality through the season. Eggplant should be cut from the stem with a knife or garden scissors when the skin is shiny and the fruit is large enough — usually four inches in diameter. The new Japanese types should be one to two inches in diameter.

Peppers are picked when firm, full-sized, and just before they turn red. Red peppers are satisfactory to use but have a shorter storage life.

Summer squash should be picked when young and tender. Once the seeds form inside or the skin hardens on the outside, quality is lost. Keep over-sized fruits picked off to keep young ones coming on.

Winter squash and pumpkins should be picked when the rinds are hardened. They should also have the characteristic color for the variety. For storage, they should be cured in a warm, dry room for a week. Spinach tops can be picked for cut when leaves are four inches long. New leaves will follow till frost.

Turnips can be harvested when moderately large, firm, and smooth. This stage should last for several weeks. Greens can be harvested any time.

Watermelons need to be picked when ripe. A dead curl by the stem, a dull sound when thumped, a yellow skin on the bottom, and a slightly dull skin on top are all indicators.

Gardeners know that Nature will confront them with a variety of problems throughout the growing season. The major ones in food gardens now seem to be leaf drop of cherries, dying squash and tomato plants, strange looking pepper and bean plants, and insects in apple, peach, sweet corn, and other vegetables.

Leaf drop of sour cherries is primarily caused by cherry leaf spot disease. It is especially bad in 1981 due to ideal infection periods for the disease during harvest. Defoliated trees will remain in a semi-dormant condition until spring and nothing can be done at this time.

Dying squash and pumpkin plants are due either to disease, squash vine borers, or squash bugs. If caused by insects, they can be found and killed. But if the plant is wilting, this type of control is too late. Watch plants for insects, and control as needed.

Dying tomato plants may be caused by fusarium or verticillium wilt, but most of the cause has been early and late high watering of sick plants is difficult. It's easier to prevent infection on healthy plants through a spray program with tomato fungicides.

Pepper and bean plants that have mottled, crinkled foliage have been infected with viruses. These plants do not die, but stay green and produce small, deformed produce. Rousing out of infected plants may serve to prevent infection in nearby healthy plants.

Insects come and go in garden crops. But at this time, corn earworm larvae are feeding on late sweet corn; corn borers may be feeding on corn, peppers, and tomatoes; peach borers may be entering peach trees and codling moths will be laying eggs on apples. Properly timed pesticides applications may prevent crop damage yet this fall.

New outreach program formed for seniors

A new program designed for area senior citizens entitled, "Senior Citizens Associations of Tri-Cities," (SCAT) is starting here as a result of the efforts of the Rev. Clarence E. Barr of Tri-City Park Tabernacle Church.

The program is a unique senior citizen outreach project opened here to promote the cultural, spiritual, and physical welfare of all senior citizens in the area, regardless of race or creed, according to the announcement.

Rev. Barr added, "This organization offers most of the benefits normally provided by other senior citizen agencies but with several additional important features. Namely the most important attributes are outreach, home maintenance, and consumer

A call to the SCAT office will bring a competent counseling team to analyze the need that exists and attempt a solution. Home maintenance where the need is apparent, and the inability to pay is established, minor repairs will be completed, labor free. Consumer discounts include card holders for members who will be able to shop at a discount from a large list of participating local merchants, Rev. Barr continued.

There is no fee for joining this organization, and one need not be a member or citizen of Tri-City Park Tabernacle Church to become a member, the minister said.

If you are age 55 or over, widowed, disabled or retired, you are eligible to share in the benefits of the SCAT program. For additional information those interested are advised to call 931-4500, Rev. Barr added.

Troop 363 National Boy Scout 1981 Jamboree

PEOPLE

These 1981 Boy Scout Jamboree pictures were taken for the Granite City Press-Record by Charles Shane Jr., who was senior patrol leader of the local Cahokia Mound Council Boy Scout Jamboree Troop 363.

The Jamboree was held at Fort A. P. Hill, Va.

Jack Taylor Jr., assistant scoutmaster of the Jamboree Troop, and Boy Scout Brian Forbes were special correspondents for the Press-Record supplying a first-hand account of the adventure that attracted 30,000 Boy Scouts from all 50 states and 108 foreign countries.

Scouts from Massachusetts. The skit was titled, "If I were not at the Jamboree this is what I'd be." The local Scouts standing from the left are: Michael W. Geske, Frank Woods, John Withers, Bruce Holt, Paul Miskell, and Alan S. Forbes.

MIDDLE RIGHT — The 36-Boy Scouts attending and the four leaders can now be identified in their Scout uniforms as they are all wearing the official multi-colored Jamboree emblem.

LOWER LEFT — The Scouts did their own cooking three meals a day, for the entire week. Cooking pancakes for breakfast are from the left: Blake Monical, John Shane, Mike Mercer and Donald Morrison. It was reported to the Press-Record that when the cooks "goofed" there were several "rescue tents" at the Jamboree with hamburgers, hot dogs, and soda, for sale and for "emergency use only."

LOWER RIGHT — The Scouts ate all their meals by patrols outside, under a dining fly. Eating a hearty lunch, clockwise around the table, are: John Shane, Paul Miskell, Scoutmaster Stark, standing, Greg Lawrence, Jeff Paulk and Mike Mercer.

By JACK TAYLOR JR.

There is always something to do here at the Jamboree.

Blake Monical, Don Morris, Eric Wilson and I walked for 40 minutes just to canoe for 60 minutes and win a wooden nickel.

Thanks to Marvin Wiedener, who is Scoutmaster of Troop 13 in Granite City and, on the Jamboree transportation staff, went into town and bought several gallons of ice cream. This made everyone happy as we could not get real ice cream from the commissary.

The "See and Do" area attracted a lot of us and we chose woodcarving and branding. We now have a lot of firewood and cut fingers.

The conservation area was another popular spot. We saw things like a 25-pound bobcat, 3-D topographical maps, Mt. St. Helen's eruption films, plus soil and water conservation practices.

Visiting Scouts from other states and other countries was great.

There is really too much going on at a national jamboree to do and see everything.

Our Troop stopped in Washington, D.C., for a day on our way home. We visited the FBI, the National Aeronautics Museum, saw the original Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution.

Bigger role for Ill. Division of Peabody Coal

Peabody Coal Co. has announced plans to merge its Mid-Continent Division into its Illinois Division headquartered at Fairview Heights.

The Mid-Continent Division, Columbia, Mo., had responsibility for operation of Peabody's Ozark Mine at Clarksville, Ark.; Power Mine at Montrose, Mo.; Rogers County No. 2 Mine at Vinita, Okla.; and Reliance Shop at Clinton, Mo.

The merger will result in a reduction of Mid-Continent headquarters personnel from the present 48 employees to 19.

"Twenty-three of the employees will be offered an opportunity to fill vacancies at other Peabody offices and mines," said Douglas H. Ashby, vice-president and general manager of the Mid-Continent Division. "When this is not possible, we will provide an outplacement program to assist the employee in finding another position."

Operations at the Mid-Continent Division's three surface mines and the Reliance Shop will not be affected. The superintendents will continue to report to B. R. Foreman, director of operations, who will head the Mid-Continent operations office at Columbia. Foreman will report directly to the Illinois Division's director of surface operations, Howard E. Hezog.

"Mid-Continent was formed as part of our corporate decentralization program begun in 1976," said Robert H. Quinn, president and chief executive officer of Peabody Coal, headquartered in St. Louis. "At that time, we anticipated expansion of our coal mining operations in the region, but this has not materialized."

"We will continue our efforts to develop markets for coal from this region. However, the cost of continuing a full division staff at Columbia could not be justified."

"With the addition of the three mines, the Illinois Division now operates eight underground and six surface mines producing more than 17 million tons annually," said Wayne T. Ewing, president of the Illinois Division. The division's other mines are in Illinois and western Kentucky.

Peabody is the nation's largest coal producer, marketing nearly 60 million tons annually and operating 38 mines located in ten states.

Eye exams for back-to-school

— Short attention span for age.

— Frowning or scowling while reading or doing chalkboard work.

— Sitting too close to the television set.

— Frequent clumsiness.

— Avoiding active participation in sports, although interested in sports.

— Showing a consistent preference for board games and books over outdoor activities.

— Frequent rubbing of the eyes.

— Using an unnecessary number of lights when reading.

— "Parents can exert a positive influence on their child's visual development by maintaining proper lighting conditions and monitoring television viewing."

— "A suitable area — well lit and glare-free — should be available where the student can do homework."

— "When watching television, these guidelines should be followed:

— "The room should not be completely dark."

— "The set should be placed to avoid glare or reflection."

— "The viewing distance should be at least seven times the width of the screen."

— "Good posture should be maintained."

— "Sitting at an extreme angle to the screen should be avoided."

— "To prevent visually related stress problems, the IOA advises that every child undergo a complete eye examination by the age of three, or earlier if it seems necessary."

— "Although vision screening is available to many school children, screening alone is insufficient, since it only tests how well a child can see out of each eye at a distance of 20 feet."

— In a complete eye examination, the optometrist conducts a battery of tests designed to detect problems with any of the visual skills, including visual acuity, fixation, ability, accommodation, convergence, binocular fusion, eye-hand co-ordination and visual form perception.

— "Between annual checkups, the IOA suggests that parents observe their children for these common signs of vision problems:

— Holding a book at arm's length or inches away when reading.

— Losing one's place when reading.

— Dropping words aloud or lip-reading.

— Turning the head to use only one eye or tilting the head to one side when reading.

— Extremely sloppy handwriting.

— Difficulty remembering, identifying or reproducing basic geometric forms.

— Poor academic performance.

— Disinterest in learning."

How we improved the 1980 Rabbit Diesel:

Introducing the 1981 Rabbit Diesel.

It doesn't seem to get it well enough alone. Our 1981 Diesel Rabbit has an engine that's even bigger than last year's. Which means you'll get a more powerful engine for better acceleration and passing power. Plus, the Rabbit's new fuel mileage and superb comfort and quietness combined with last year's interior. EPA estimate of 32 mpg, 34 mpg highway estimate. (Using only material in this ad, no comparison. Mileage varies with speed, trip length, weather, etc. Actual highway mileage will probably be less.)

Key role

lawyers; bargaining enters decisive stage

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

The final week—before the 1981-82 school term—is here, with no employee agreements reached. But intensive negotiations are planned in the Granite City district during the current week in an effort to start fall classes on time Aug. 25.

As the bargaining continues and enters a decisive phase, much of the attention will be on the legal advisers, both from Belleville.

Attorney Raymond Freeark is a key strategist for the American Federation of Teachers, and Attorney Harold Baker advises board members and administrators on the District Nine negotiating team.

William Schooley is the principal school district attorney assisted by William Beatty, son of Federal Judge William Beatty. But Baker has been the school district's legal consultant at its bargaining talks in recent years.

Little has been said by either side this summer, other than that no settlement has been reached. But it is believed that the main point yet to be resolved by Federation Local 748 and the Granite City School system involves the amount the salary schedule should be changed.

There already are built-in raises for these faculty members acquiring additional college credit and for those whose length of service has not yet reached the maximum pay level. In addition, negotiations always have led to raises achieved by altering the schedule itself.

Both parties seem agreed that a schedule raise of some amount will be granted. Each is looking to its lawyer for help in bringing the talks to an amicable conclusion.

The two sides' present definitions of what the raises ought to be may differ considerably, but this is only an assumption, since the talks so far have dealt with issues other than money.

The proposed 1981-82 school budget of $25,841,384 includes $29,000 for contractual legal services, up $6,000 from the 1980-81 budget. A breakdown shows $17,000 for general legal work, up $4,000, and $12,000 for legal services related to negotiations, an increase of $2,000.

The new budget was made public when it was given tentative board approval last week.

It is on public display, pending a hearing Sept. 15, at which time it will be revised to include whatever increases are agreed upon for employee salary schedules.

Hearings also are to be held on a $359,115 budget for Quad-City Special Education Region I, and on the tax levies of any accounts showing a rise of five percent or more, compared to a year ago.

The latter hearings stem from a newly-signed state law requiring a brief explanation to citizens of the reasons for any tax hikes.

Tentative tax levies amount to $8,238,480 (compared to $7,348,903 extended a year ago) and include:

- Education $6,120,000 ($5,500,232);
- operations, building and maintenance $900,000 ($817,513);
- transportation $28,000 ($20,604);
- Illinois municipal retirement fund $470,400 ($350,965);
- life safety fund for building modernization $120,000 ($109,001);
- an identical $120,000 ($109,001) for working cash; and
- $220,080 ($200,583) for tort immunity (injury and damage suits).

The new school tax rate is projected as $3.4331, up 6.21 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, based on the proposed levies and an estimated 1981 assessment of $240 million. The 1980 valuation total was $19,003,455.

The tentative budget of $25,841,384 represents an increase of $219,112. This total consists of:

- Education; including tort immunity, $22,344,844; up $332,337;
- Operations, building and maintenance, including life safety, $1,471,940; down $356,171;
- Transportation; $1,302,600; up $131,607;
- And municipal retirement, $722,000; up $102,120.

Some insurance costs cut by new fire rating; homes not affected Granite City's fire insurance rating has improved from a class six to a class five, which will reduce insurance premiums for businesses and schools. Fire Chief Don Parente has announced.

Notification of the improved fire rating was received in a letter from Marvin L. Austin, supervisor of the public protection section of the Insurance Services Office of Illinois in Chicago.

He noted that the better rating was the result of information gathered during a recent survey of Granite City by investigators who conducted hydrant flow tests and evaluated response time from the city's three fire stations to various parts of the city.

The rates paid by homeowners are not affected by the change and no reductions in fire insurance rates are anticipated unless the city improves its protection and the rating improves to a four, according to Parente. "We are hopeful we will be able to continue our improvements and qualify for a four next year," he added.

The new fire insurance rating of five, however, will result in an estimated annual savings to the Granite City School District of $5,755, or 10 cents per $1,000 value on its property, which is insured at $77,774.19.

Masonry church buildings should note a decrease from $1.75 per $1,000 value to $1.48, while the fire insurance rating for frame churches will drop from $3.45 to $3.33.

Hospital fire insurance rates should decline from $1.32 to $1.43 per $1,000 value, and the library buildings should decline from $1.48 to $1.39.

Frame office buildings should notice a reduction in fire insurance rates from $4.93 to $4.74 per $1,000 and masonry office buildings should have a decrease from $2.22 to $2.18.

Banks also should notice a decrease as the rates for masonry banks will decline from $2.32 to $2.18 according to a rate survey done for Parente by Ray Kaegel, president of the Granite City Board of Realtors and an fire insurance sales.

The change was made effective back to Aug. 1, but Austin notes in his letter, "the adoption of this change and the effective date is a matter of individual decision on the part of each insurance company."

Large commercial properties were not considered in developing the "new public protection classification," he noted, and said some industries may receive a different rate than the class five.

Road deaths decreasing

Illinois highway traffic fatalities in July totaled 163 as a result of 149 accidents.

Provisional statistics by the Illinois Department of Transportation and the Illinois State Police show a decrease of 5.2 percent from the 172 fatalities total for July 1980 and a decrease of 7.9 percent from the 174 road deaths in July 1979.

The were 23 pedestrians killed in 22 accidents, one pedal cyclist killed in one accident, nine persons killed in six fatal crashes involving accidents and 36 persons killed in 33 accidents involving motorcycles.

The provisional total of 1,049 fatalities for the seven months of 1981 is a decrease of 3.1 percent from the 1,083 deaths for the same period of 1980, and an increase of 1.3 percent from the 1,036 deaths in January-July 1979.

Bands, floats in Labor Day parade

After an absence of 24 years, the Labor Day parade—once a tradition of labor organizations—will be revived this year in Granite City.

A massive Labor Day parade is being planned for Monday, Sept. 7 to include floats, marching units from labor organizations, bands and other typical parade fanfare.

A parade committee headed by Edwin Reiske, president of the Granite City Trades and Labor Council, and Robert Means, subcommittee director of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, are meeting weekly to complete preparations for the parade which will start at 9 a.m. Labor Day.

Reiske said the committee plans to meet on Saturday, Aug. 22 and 23, to complete its preparations and to receive requests from units that wish to take part in the parade.

To date, 26 parade marshals have been appointed to lead different units of the parade.

"We are planning to make this an annual event," Reiske said of the parade. "We hope it will help instill pride in our union organizations by the younger men. In the past, the younger element of organized labor has taken their unions for granted, but years ago, union members had to fight for everything they got."

Similar parades are being held throughout the region, as well as the nation to recognize the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions, forerunner of the American Federation of Labor.

Parades also are being planned in Belleville where no Labor Day parade has been held in three years, and in Alton. The Alton parade, however, is to be held Aug. 29 to give union members an opportunity to take advantage of the three-day holiday on Labor Day.

The parade in Granite City will embrace unions of the entire Quad-City area, including Madison and Venice. Mayors Mike Sasyk of Madison and Byron Echols of Venice will participate in the parade, as will Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City. Officials of all three cities also will be in the parade.

Reiske explained that labor leaders, handling parade arrangements are meeting with the fullest cooperation from the unions in the area and that virtually every union in the area will have marching units in the line of march.

So far, Reiske said, the committee has commitments from six bands to march in the parade, and expect a number of others to take part.

Among the bands planning to participate are the Granite City High School South Band, the Granite City High School North Band (with two units) The Oriental Band, a Masonic unit, the Madison High School Band, and a 70-piece band of the Musicians Union.

The parade will form at the ball diamond between Iowa Street and Washington Avenue at 12th Street in Madison. Starting at 9 a.m., the line of march will proceed on 24th Street to Madison Avenue where it will turn north at Madison and march north to 24th Street where it will disband at Memorial Park.

No picnic has been arranged in connection with the event, but the parade committee still is discussing the possibility of games and entertainment at Memorial Park after the parade.

Reiske said that arrangements for the event will be announced as they are completed by the committee.

"But one thing is certain," he said, "and that is the parade will be held on Labor Day from now on. We want to get back to the old days and show our real strength. We want to revive labor's image and I'm sure the parade will be a big step."

Reiske said there has not been a Labor Day parade in Granite City since 1957.

New laws on child neglect, savings firms, condominiums

Governor James R. Thompson Friday in the protection of a child's welfare during adoption and approved hope of assuring better child abuse proceedings. House Bill 277 makes the definition of "neglect" in the Juvenile Court Act consistent with the definition in the Abused and Neglected Child Reporting Act.

It also spells out factual circumstances which, if proved, establish a prima facie case of child abuse and neglect. It mandates the courts to order physical examinations and color photographs of alleged victims of child abuse.

HB 486 seeks to close a loophole in the Illinois Adoption Act that inadvertently gave favored status in adoption to a parent who had previously surrendered rights to the child or had been found unfit. HB 488 amends the Adoption Act to put a 12-month limit on the time in which a natural parent can seek to revoke a consent for adoption on the basis that he or she was subjected to fraud or duress.

Thompson issued an amendatory veto of HB 483. He approved the substance, requiring guardians ad litem (attorneys appointed to protect a child's interest in juvenile court) to have at least one face-to-face interview with the minor before a legal hearing. The governor made a minor language change to make it consistent with other laws.

The governor also signed legislation Friday amending the Illinois Savings and Loan Act, enabling state-chartered savings and loan organizations to branch out on a statewide basis.

It will place them on an equal footing with federally-chartered savings and loan firms, he said.

Thompson signed a bill Thursday granting more rights to tenants of buildings being converted into condominiums.

It extends by up to 30 days the length of a time that a tenant has the right of first refusal in buying a condominium, and requires that owners give tenants the right to inspect the building and any documents relating to its condition.

Michael Manning to oppose Vadalabene for senate seat

Michael Manning, a 34-year-old Marine Corps Vietnam veteran who has been active in independent Democratic and non-partisan political campaigns in Madison County, has announced that he is seeking the 56th District Illinois State Senate seat now held by Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

The Granite City resident, formerly of Edwardsville, plans to conduct a door-to-door campaign based on the need for an overall economic recovery of the 56th District.

"I firmly believe that our next State Senator should play an important role in maintaining a healthy business and employment climate through his leadership," Manning said. "The incumbent has not been a leader in any sense of the word for many years, excluding his eagerness to be the first to start fist fights on the floor of the Illinois Senate. Sam's behavior has set a very poor example for area young people, who for the most part, already have little enough faith in our political system."

"In his 15 years of so-called 'crystal clear service,' Madison County has experienced little more than spurts of short-term economic growth and much long-term economic decay, in view of the fact that nearly 13,000 of our family members, friends and neighbors are presently out of work."

Manning said that one of the keys to putting people back to work is to develop workable and fair-minded labor-management relationships in local construction, area manufacturing industries and government agencies. He says the role of the next State Senator should be that of a "go-between" seeking compromise when disputes threaten the loss of jobs or the closing of workplaces.

As a recent example, he cited the closing of the A. O. Smith plant in Granite City as a direct result of the failure of union, political and management leaders to reach a strike settlement in time to save 2,000 potential Madison County jobs.

"Once the doors are locked and the lights are turned out, it's too late to start worrying about where our people are going to get the money it takes to support their families. Unemployment checks and extensions don't cut it when a family health insurance plan alone, costs nearly $500 every three months."

Manning said that political leadership should come from the top down and that the work of a legislator should not be limited merely to creating more laws, often resulting in overly restrictive legislation, but must be aimed at providing the local leadership necessary to ensure paychecks and a better quality of life for the working people of Madison County.

Manning is convinced, after having many discussions with young couples and elderly people, that the second major concern of our citizens is the skyrocketing cost of medical care.

"How can Sam Vadalabene honestly say he represents the needs of working people when he has accepted thousands of dollars in contributions from the Chicago and Springfield-based lobbying groups of Illinois doctors, dentists and optometrists, among others," Manning said.

"Wealthy special interest groups clearly put their campaign cash where it will do them the most good, although it is always at the expense of the working people. I intend to make Vadalabene's official campaign contributions, and mine, available for public review throughout the campaign to give the people who are paying the bills a clear choice."

Manning said he welcomes his opponent to publicly debate the pressing concerns of the district as often as possible during the next eight months in order to focus attention on the issues rather than solely on personalities, names or faces.

Manning lives with his wife Karin at 1251 Niedringhaus Ave., Granite City, where they are employed by the Family Support Unit of the Madison Marine Corps Combat Aircrew Insignia in January of 1968 for flying on night missions over Vietnam aboard an illumination flareship.

Manning graduated from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in June of 1974 with a degree in journalism with a minor concentration in general business administration.

He worked as an organizer in the 1976 re-election campaign of former Illinois Governor Dan Walker and has been employed by many independent-Democratic and non-partisan candidates in Madison County since 1970 to produce their brochures, radio and newspaper advertising. He also served as a temporary assistant to Madison County Treasurer Michael S. "Mick" Henkhaus in the early months of Henkhaus' present term of office.

Most recently, Manning was employed to assist in a media and direct-mail campaign which resulted in the defeat of two Third Judicial Circuit Court Judges.

Manning said that he has been offered support by many Democrats and independent voters throughout the Madison County area who say that they are "very dissatisfied" with the present state of affairs at the state and local level.

He says that he will be able to raise the required amount of money to match the Vadalabene campaign treasury by taking the issues to the working people of Madison County and asking for contributions to help the cause.

Interest rates hiked on veterans policies

The annual interest rate charged by the Veterans Administration on National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policy loans has been increased to 11 percent effective July 29.

NSLI coverage was provided service personnel on active duty from Oct. 8, 1940, through April 24, 1951. Those who converted this World War II coverage to a permanent plan may obtain loans up to 94 percent of the cash value of their individual policy. In fiscal year 1980, VA made about 96,000 loans on NSLI policies.

The July 29 change does not affect the loan interest rate on United States Government Life Insurance (USGLI) policies, VA pointed out. Interest rates on USGLI policies, which were extended to military personnel who served between May 1919 and April 1951, are set by law.

The loan interest rate on NSLI policies was increased to 5 percent in 1971. Since that time, other investments made for the insurance trust funds have yielded increasingly higher earnings and dividends for policy holders. The increased interest rate will permit earnings on policy loans to become comparable with other investments.

Claims to be mother of abandoned babies here

An anonymous letter was received at the Press-Record offices Friday morning addressed to Pat Foley, staff photographer, allegedly sent by the mother of Geri Elizabeth July, the two-to-four-day-old abandoned baby found July 27 in the parking garage at the St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

What makes this letter even more interesting is that the writer also says she is the mother of Mary Elizabeth June, a two-day-old baby girl abandoned outside the Hope Clinic for Women on 21st Street in June of last year.

The one paragraph letter, unsigned, was written on a piece of loose-leaf note paper. It reads as follows: "I am the mother of Geri Elizabeth July...and also Mary Elizabeth June. If blood test or other test done you would find this to be true."

The writer also included the alleged date of Geri Elizabeth's birthday which is stated as "July 26, (Friday) at 6:20 p.m." This date and day do not correspond since July 26 was on a Sunday. This is all of the information given in the unusual letter.

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services have requested a copy of the letter to include in their files on Geri Elizabeth July.

Any additional information about either baby, including medical background, that the mother is willing to make known can be sent to the Press-Record, in care of Pat Foley, or he can be reached by calling 976-2000 during normal working hours.

Cable TV studied by Venice Council

A presentation by Doyle J. Dugans Sr., regional manager for CATV Associates, a cable TV firm, was made to the Venice city council last week.

The Venice council has been considering cable TV for the past several months. Representatives from the city of Madison made a presentation several months ago. Madison is in the process of installing a city operated and owned cable TV system.

The CATV firm has already obtained a franchise in Brooklyn.

They are asking for a 15-year franchise and would invest from $1 to $1.5 million in equipment.

The city would receive 5 percent on the gross subscriptions sold in the city.

Other advantages pointed out by the firm representative were that they would hire and train local residents in positions with the company, buy locally wherever possible, rent or buy property locally and in addition would be paying the city local property tax.

The system could be operational in seven to eight months after the legal work, particularly with the utilities, was completed.

The company would also post a $15,000 performance bond to insure that CATV would do all that they promised.

The system would be a 30 channel group, including the current local St. Louis stations.

The basic rental would be $8.95 a month, without any of three movie channels offered.

The onetime installation charge would be $15 when the company would go through a neighborhood the first time. The charge would then be $20 if a person did not sign up in the beginning.

The firm hopes, if the contract is awarded them, to have 60 to 70 percent participation within the first three to four years.

Every alderman was given a complete booklet on the CATV operation.

Mayer Echols told Dugans the city was looking into several offers and TV cable operators and thanked him for addressing the council.

Echols noted that there are, according to the 1980 census, 1,291 houses in Venice, a drop from 1,451 in 1970.

The Venice population count is 3,480 people, a drop of 5 percent from the 1970 census.

Property owners who are not keeping their grass and weeds cut, even on vacant lots, may have the city cut the weeds, and pay for the work. If not paid the city will put a lien against the property.

Weed cutting has become too costly for the city to continue the work, according to the mayor.

PEN PALS MEET. Sigrid Ebersbach from Germany, left, and Kim Kleinschmidt of Granite City, meet for the first time at the Lambert St. Louis International Airport. The two young women have been corresponding with each other for 10 years and plan to continue their friendship with visits each year.

German pen pal visits here

A 10-year friendship which started in October 1971 when two girls began writing to each other was further cemented when they met in person for the first time at Lambert St. Louis International Airport when Miss Sigrid Ebersbach arrived here from Germany.

Miss Sigrid Ebersbach and Miss Kim Kleinschmidt of Granite City, started writing to each other after Maria Knapczyk, also of Granite City, gave the German girl's name and address to Miss Kleinschmidt.

The pen pals, who are both the only child in their respective families, have renewed their interests while vacationing in Colorado this month. They toured many historical points of interest in the west and upon their return to this area they visited St. Louis sites including the arch.

This week the two young women were moved to Springfield, Ill., to view Lincoln's Home and tomb and surrounding government buildings. They also spent some time in Peoria, Ill., prior to returning to Granite City.

Miss Ebersbach, 24 years old and is employed as a pharmacist in her home. She lives at 4229 Edme, West Germany, near Düsseldorf.

The out of town guest has had little trouble with the language since she studied English in school and speaks very fluently, according to Mrs. Kleinschmidt.

Kim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kleinschmidt, 3909 Princeton Drive. She is 22 and is working at Wilson Park for the summer.

The two have been involved in a busy schedule of activities since July 15 when Miss Ebersbach arrived and will continue until this weekend when Miss Ebersbach plans to depart for her home.

Honored for service

Governor James R. Thompson congratulated his budget director, Robert Mandeville, Tuesday, on receiving the National Governors' Association Award for Distinguished State Service.

"I have been saying for months that Bob Mandeville has out-Stockmanned David Stockman in budget-cutting this year," Thompson said. "He has done an excellent job in helping me keep the State of Illinois on a sane and sound fiscal course. I am proud of Bob Mandeville's service to the people of Illinois. He richly deserves this honor."

Mandeville was one of 21 winners nationwide in the fifth annual awards of the honor.

"Our awards program is the first national effort to recognize distinguished service to state government by both state officials and private citizens," Georgia Governor George Busby, association chairman, said.

"These men and women have not only served the citizens of their own state exceptionally well, but they have in many cases developed creative approaches to dealing with problems that affect the nation as a whole."

Cardinals announce year-end promos Steamers open Nov. 20

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Cardinals today announced a promotions schedule for the remainder of the 1981 season. The line-up includes several new events for Busch Memorial Stadium as well as some promotions that were rescheduled from earlier dates.

In announcing the special promotions program, Cardinal President August A. Busch Jr. said, "Our main objective is to put the strike as far behind us as quickly as possible and to provide baseball to our great fans who have been deprived of their beloved game for so much of the summer. We still have a great deal of baseball ahead of us, and we want to share the excitement of the remainder of the season with as many fans as possible."

Highlighting the new plan is a discount ticket program that will cover each of the Cardinals' 22 home games.

"Dollar Days at Busch Stadium" will begin on Aug. 17 when the Cardinals return to St. Louis for their first home game since the All-Star game kicked off baseball's second season.

During "Dollar Days," all general admission tickets, regularly priced at $3.50, and bleachers, normally $2.50, will cost just $1 each. These tickets will be made available when the gates open for each scheduled game.

Another fresh feature for the 1981 season is slated for Aug. 23 when the Cardinals' host "The Busch 10,000" at the ballpark. The first 10,000 fans in line for the Cards' game against the Los Angeles Dodgers will receive a free ticket in the terrace reserved section, complimentary of the team and the Cardinals. Ticket windows will open at 9:30 a.m. for the promotion. More information on this special activity will be forthcoming.

Aug. 23 is also Camera Day when fans can take pictures. The Cardinals' promotions department has planned a third special day for Cardinal Boosters when the first "Fan Appreciation Day" will be held on Sept. 7. Sept. 29 against Montreal. All paying fans in attendance at that game will receive a gift card redeemable for a free reserved seat for any game during the 1982 season, except for opening day.

In addition to these three ticket offers, the Cardinals promotions schedule includes the premier appearance of "Fredbird" on Sept. 13, "Bob Broep's Redbirds" on Sept. 14, "The following night is 'Hunter Night' at the Stadium. When the Chicago Cubs come to town on Sept. 7 the first 10,000 paying fans will receive a free red and white Cardinal vest which features the famous birds-on-bat logo.

All children with a paid admission will be given a red souvenir hat with the "Hemet Day," Sept. 13 when the Mets visit St. Louis. Community Federal Savings Loan and S&W TV are sponsoring two "Fredbird Poster Nights" when the Cardinals host the Cardinals on Sept. 23 and 24. A 24" by 30" color poster of the Cardinals mascot will be given to each paying fan in attendance at those two games.

All those who come to the stadium to see the Pirates play the Cardinals on Sept. 25 will receive a 2-for-1 pass good for the Mid-America Theaters in the St. Louis Area.

On Sept. 30 when the Pirates take on the Cardinals, all children with a paid admission will receive a free Cardinal T-shirt replica of the uniform top featuring the famous birds-on-the-bat logo.

Along with these special nights, the Cardinals promotional activities include previously scheduled Ladies-Senior Citizens special on Aug. 19, Aug. 26 and Sept. 9, KMOX-Chevrolet autograph booths each Friday home game, and the annual Light Stadium Run on Sun., Sept. 27.

There is a possibility that more special promotion dates will be announced.

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Steamers of the Major Indoor Soccer League have announced their home schedule for the 1981-82 season. The Central Division Champs of last season will raise the curtain on this year's campaign on Friday evening, Nov. 20, against the Kansas City Comets.

The expanded MISL schedule calls for each team to play 44 regular season games — 22 at home and 22 on the road. "In my 25 years in professional sports, I've never seen a better home schedule," said Ben Kerier, executive officer. The Steamers will play at the Checkerdome on 12 Friday nights, three Saturday nights, one Saturday afternoon, four Sunday afternoons and two Wednesday nights. The two Wednesday finishes in each game group for the 10,000 meter run. Each of the first 500 to enter the race will receive a T-shirt.

The entry fee is $4.50 for entries received by August 26. Late entry is $5. Entry forms are available at National Supermarkets, T-Shirts Plus and local sporting goods stores.

$7.8 million development planned at Pontoon Beach

A industrial and commercial project in the Pontoon Beach area was the main topic of discussion of the Pontoon Beach Village Board and prompted the board to pass resolutions of intent to issue $7,828,000 in revenue bonds at a meeting held last week.

Mrs. Flood of Re-Max Realty presented the resolutions to the board for a group of unnamed investors. Proceeds of the bond issue will be used to renovate and add new business to the Gaslight Walk Shopping Center and develop an additional tract on Route 111.

The opening of a Wal-Mart Store, Red Lobster Restaurant, McDonald's Restaurant, the Granite Investment Office, a theater, laundromat, condominiums, mobile home park, warehouses and office space is included in the tentative development program.

Mrs. Flood said the project was dependent on having the village approve the industrial revenue bond issue. She said the investors are committed only so far as saying they are interested, and meetings have now been set for each individual investor to explain the plan and make plans for the next step.

The expansion will provide locations for existing structures at the shopping center and there will also be extensive new construction if the project is completely developed, she said.

Bonds would be sold on an interest rate basis for the project expected to span three years, beginning this year. According to the resolution, $2.8 million of the funds will be needed this year with another $3.4 million would be needed in 1982 and $1.6 million for the remaining two years.

Although funds in the amount of $3,328,000 have been set aside for the purchase and remodeling of 26 four-family apartments at Gaslight Walk into condominium units, there are some attorneys' questioning whether or not condominiums will qualify for industrial revenue bond issues.

In answer to the question, Assistant Attorney General Marshall "Zeke" Smith said the bonds can be issued by a municipality or village, not just home rule units.

In continuing the explanation, Smith added the bonds are supposed to be used to stimulate the economy in some way with jobs or revenues and it is not clear whether or not condominiums would meet that requirement.

He said industrial revenue bonds are issued by municipalities for private industrial or commercial developments under an Internal Revenue Service rule. Smith said that a bond issued by a municipality means the developer may borrow needed funds at a lower interest rate than on the open market.

Once the bonds are sold, the sponsoring group is not held responsible for the repayment of the funds.

In other business the board members approved resolutions to provide $550,000 for the laundromat, shopping center and lot; $650,000 for Red Lobster; $950,000 for the theater and lot; $2 million for a mobile home park; $150,000 for the Granite Investment Office; $100,000 for buildings at 4984 Gaslight Walk and $50,000 for a warehouse at 3067 Gaslight Walk.

At a later date consideration for funds, not yet determined, will be given for the Wal-Mart Store, McDonald's Restaurant, the purchase of a 14 acre plot of land on Highway 111 and 10 acres belonging to the Village of Pontoon Beach which may be used for a park and recreational area.

10,000 meter run set for Aug. 29

BELLEVILLE — Saturday, Aug. 29 is a date to remember for area runners. It's the date of the third annual Disabilities Awareness Run. This year's race, starting at 8 a.m., will feature a scenic 10,000 meter (6.2 mile) course beginning and ending in beautiful Citizens Park in Belleville.

There also will be a one-mile run.

Last year's run drew more than 300 participants and this year's is expected to top that by 200.

Trophies will be presented to the top three men and women finishers in five age categories and ribbons will be given to the next seven finishes in each game group for the 10,000 meter run. Each of the first 500 to enter the race will receive a T-shirt.

The entry fee is $4.50 for entries received by August 26. Late entry is $5. Entry forms are available at National Supermarkets, T-Shirts Plus and local sporting goods stores.

White-tailed deer now state animal

Governor James R. Thompson made the white-tailed deer, which is officially known as Odocoileus virginianus borealis, the official state animal Thursday in a bill-signing ceremony.

The governor approved House Bill 192, which implements the results of an election held among Illinois' public school children last year. The school children voted by an overwhelming margin, 253,708 votes out of a total of 284,038 cast, to name the white-tailed deer the state animal. The nearest competitor was the raccoon, 70,000 votes behind the deer.

"Children across the state got a taste of the elective process through this legislation," Thompson said during a signing ceremony at the Illinois State Capitol.

The school children of Illinois selected wolf, for not only is the animal beautiful, but it can be found in all 102 counties of our state."

The measure was sponsored by Representative Charles J. Jones of Rock Island, and Senator Gene Johns, of Marion.

Bill provides loans for college students

Governor James R. Thompson signed a bill on Thursday giving the Illinois State Scholarship Commission the authority to make federal loans to parents of college or university students.

"This bill will help open up another avenue for parents to obtain their sons or daughters in getting a quality education," the Governor said.

Senate Bill 1201 authorizes the Illinois State Scholarship Commission to administer the Parent Loan Program as provided for in the 1980 Federal Higher Education Amendments.

Under that federal program, guaranteed loans would be made available to the parents of qualified students if the parents are Illinois residents.

The Scholarship Commission will begin taking applications on January 1, 1982.

As approved by Congress, provisions of the loan program would allow parents to borrow up to $3,000 annually for up to five years at 14 percent interest. The repayment on the loans would begin 60 days after they are received. However, approval of these specific provisions still await action by President Reagan.

The measure signed by Governor Thompson was sponsored by Senator Howard Carroll, of Chicago, and Representative Fred Turk, of Peoria.

When You Shop Here at Home You Help Create More Jobs

Many years ago, when our town was just beginning, it had few people, fewer stores and no manufacturing as we know it today.

Our community grew because more people moved here in our trade area. Soon there was a demand for more stores and a need for local manufacturing.

People moving here meant building more homes, more stores meant more jobs and our industries needed workers. The word got around, and a steady stream of people looking for work and homes settled here.

Today, the more business our stores do the more people they hire. More jobs in our industries mean more business for all, and help spread and lower the tax burden.

Nothing very mysterious about it. Nearly every community grew the same way. So, shop at home and do YOUR part to help us all continue to grow.
